MUNICIPAL VOTERS GIVE LABOR GREAT GAINS IN ENGLAND

Heaviest Losses Suffered by Conservatives in Elections Regarded as Important Test of Public Political Opinion—Reform Party Still Ahead in Many Municipalities

LONDON, Nov. 2 (CP).—Labor registered sweeping gains in returns available early today from municipal elections held all over England. The heaviest losses were suffered by the Conservatives.

The results were watched with keen interest because the elections are regarded as an unusually important test of public opinion in view of the probability of a general election next year.

SWING TO LABOR

The results in London district showed a strong swing to the Labor side, but in many municipalities in that district the turnover still left the Municipal Reform Party ahead. The Municipal Reform candidates are broadly classified as Conservatives.

Early today the results showed that throughout England and Wales Labor had gained 198 seats and lost eight; Conservatives had gained thirteen and lost 104; Liberals had gained four and lost thirty-four, while Independents gained five and lost seventy-four.

In London district Labor had chalked up 148 gains against one loss. The Municipal Reform candidates had only one gain against 132 losses.

BATTERSEA CHANGES

Battersea was one London district where the Laborites captured a majority. The Municipal Reform majority into a Labor majority.

Voting in London was watched particularly because there it was the first municipal voting since the general elections of 1931. In that area twenty-eight boroughs vote only once every three years.

FIND MEANS TO SETTLE DEBTS

Board of Trade President Announces New Agreement Made With Germany

LONDON, Nov. 1 (CP).—Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, today announced in the House of Commons the terms of a new Anglo-German agreement on the vexed question of commercial debts, but at the same time warned that the agreement would not automatically remove all difficulties hindering trade between the two countries.

Commercial debts owed by Germany to the United Kingdom have been a problem outstanding for some time. An Anglo-German agreement, last August, temporarily patched up the differences existing.

Briefly, the agreement provides:

AGREEMENT SUMMARIZED
The German Government will guarantee that 55 per cent of the value of German exports to Britain will be definitely earmarked for payment for exports from Britain to Germany. The Reichsbank will provide a sum not less than $2,000,000 to liquidate outstanding commercial debts.

This will be expedited by realization of outstanding German commercial claims on the United Kingdom. To cover further contingencies, should these measures be insufficient, the Reichsbank will set aside provisionally a sum of 10 per cent additional percentage of the value of German exports to Britain. This is designed to insure liquidation of all outstanding debts within twelve months.

MAY JOIN SOUTH AFRICAN UNION

Proponents of Merger With Dominion Win Elections in Former German Territory

WINDHOEK, Southwest Africa, Nov. 1 (CP via Reuters).—Elections for the Legislative Assembly of the territory of Southwest Africa, former German colony now mandated to the Union of South Africa, have gone strongly in favor of the United Party, indicating that the territory may shortly become a fifth province of the Union.

With final results still in doubt, the United Party tonight had already obtained the necessary two-thirds majority to enable them to put their policy of union with the Union of South Africa through the Legislature.

The United Party has elected three members without opposition, and eight more out of ten seats, giving them thirteen seats out of eighteen.

R. B. Hanson Gets Offer of Vacant Post in Cabinet

Large Scale Reorganization Expected to Allow Provincial Representation in Government—Setting Stage for General Election Considered Certain Within Twelve Months

OTTAWA, Nov. 1 (CP).—Cabinet reconstruction and political organization are two very live subjects in Ottawa, and important announcements are expected momentarily. Both were projected before the resignation of Hon. H. H. Stevens, as Minister of Trade and Commerce, threw the governmental and party machinery into confusion last week.

PRICE OF WHEAT SWINGS UPWARD

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1 (CP).—A horizontal advance of 13-4 cents was chalked up on the big wheat futures board of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, today, while the trade accepted with mixed feelings the "pegged" minimum prices, imposed by the exchange council at the inspiration of the Federal Government.

Farmers, meantime, expressed satisfaction with the move, designed to halt "bear" raids emanating from foreign operators. Feverish enthusiasm saw values boosted right from the outset, and bullish enthusiasm appeared to be fed rather than dampened by imposition of the "peg."

Saanich Resident Is Fatally Wounded by Shot From Own Gun

F. I. Nichol Dies on Way to Hospital After Receiving Blast of Birdshot in Stomach—Jarred Weapon Against Ground

FATALLY wounded by his own shotgun which accidentally discharged when he was hunting, yesterday, in North Saanich, F. I. Nichol, Borden Avenue, died within an hour as he was being rushed to Rest Haven. The butt of the gun struck the ground, causing the firing of a shell into his stomach. Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart has called an inquest for 4 p.m. today, at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Parlors.

The fatality occurred at 11 a.m. yesterday, while Mr. Nichol was hunting partridge with W. M. Carmichael, 1923 Port Street, and J. R.

BERLIN, Nov. 1 (CP-Havas).—German scientists have perfected an illuminating gas that will substitute for motor gasoline, it was announced at a meeting of the German Engineers' Association today by Baron Von Elitz-Rubenach, Minister of Communications.

TWO DEAD ON WEST COAST

Believed to Have Perished in Wreck of Fish Packer—One Man Survives

Two men lost their lives and the fish packer Chuckwalla was wrecked on the West Coast of Vancouver Island on Wednesday night, according to word received here yesterday from Ahousat, in Clayoquot Sound.

Morris Lewis, captain of the packer, and James Thomas perished with their craft, in the opinion of Carl Smith, engineer, who escaped when he was washed overboard with a dinghy and managed to reach shore safely.

En route from Heate to Kildonan, and towing another boat at the time, the Chuckwalla, owned by B.C. Packers, ran on to a reef on the south side of Blunden Island, five miles southeast of Ahousat, according to the meagre information that reached Victoria.

REPORTS TRAGEDY

Smith hurried to a telephone as soon as he reached shore and informed his company and the lifeboat crew of the tragedy. Two boats, the New Island and an Indian-owned craft, went to the assistance of the Chuckwalla and succeeded in towing the packer to a beach near the Indian school, where she sank.

UNABLE TO FIND BODIES

Col. A. W. R. Wilby, agent for the Federal Department of Marine, was advised yesterday morning by the coxswain of the Government lifeboat station at Clayoquot that a lifeboat had proceeded to the scene of the wreck as soon as he had been notified. Search by the crew for the missing men had been unsuccessful, but the lifeboat was going out later to resume the search. Later, Col. Wilby received another report that further search for the bodies had been without success.

NECESSARY TO SAVE INDUSTRY

Under-Secretary for Dominions Defends Britain's Restriction of Food Imports

MELBOURNE, Nov. 1 (CP via Reuters).—The British Government's policy of restricting import of foodstuffs was defended by Malcolm MacDonald, Under-Secretary for Dominions in the British Cabinet, in a speech to the Australian Association of British Manufacturers here tonight.

Mr. MacDonald, who came from London in connection with the centenary celebrations, said in reply to Australian criticisms of the policy that it had been forced on the British Government in order to save the British industry from destruction.

Foreign foodstuffs would be the first to suffer curtailment, Mr. MacDonald said, and every effort would be made to give the Dominions the largest possible share in the British market, according to the Ottawa agreements.

If it were found that the Ottawa agreements needed revision the relations of Britain and the Dominions should enable settlement of the differences in a friendly manner as between members of the one family, he added.

The dinner was under Government auspices.

CLAIMS CROP OF OATS IS RECORD

GRAND PRAIRIE, Alta., Nov. 1 (CP).—What is acclaimed here as a world record of 172 bushels per acre of oats has been harvested on the farm of Percy U. Clubbine. A production of 3,699 bushels of second generation certified Victoria oats was recorded after repeated measuring and weighing from a field which a civil engineer's measurement put at practically eighteen acres.

MAYOR LEEMING WILL RUN AGAIN

Chief Magistrate to Seek Re-Election—Will Continue Present Civic Policy

With the municipal elections in Victoria only six weeks distant, Mayor David Leeming announces that he will seek re-election at the polls in December. He is now completing his third term of office as Mayor and has been pressed by many to offer himself for re-election and carry out the general policy which he has followed during his years in office.

The period through which the city is passing has made the question of policy at the City Hall largely one of a financial character and in offering himself for office again, His Worship promises to devote himself to a continuation of the financial policy that has been adopted.

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Mayor Leeming's announcement in this regard is as follows: "In my opinion the city is best benefited by the continuance of the present policy and can only be handled by someone who has an intimate knowledge of its finances and requirements. The problem of the city today is financial and social. "The city during the current year, Continued on Page 2, Column 1

Ceylon Reforms To Be Discussed

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Nov. 1 (CP Cable via Reuters).—The thorny question of working out a new constitution for Ceylon, introduced in 1931, has been reopened by the invitation of Governor Sir Reginald Stubbs to the ministers to discuss certain reforms.

Chief subject of discussion will be the method of selecting ministers. The new constitution provides adult suffrage and a system of government by committees.

Bitterest Campaign In Years Is Nearing Close in California

Upton Sinclair Centre of Battle for Votes, While Oregon Watches Progress of Another Radical Candidate for Governor With Close Interest

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1 (AP).—Whether a political economy labelled "Communism" and "Socialism" by its opponents will be set up in California, dominates the fast ebbing campaign in the Far West, with the collective voting ear ringing generally with the pros and cons of the "New Deal."

Into the realms of religion and motion picture alike the tentacles of the California campaign have reached. Business has turned its ear, says the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and has decided to hold up investments for the outcome on Tuesday next.

Secretary of State Admits America Set Vicious Example—Now Wants to Lead in Removal of Barriers Against International Trade—Warns Against Extreme Nationalism

President Seeks Agreements For Benefit of All Nations

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (CP).—Admitting that the United States had set the "vicious example of high tariff," Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, tonight declared, "We have now repented." "Extreme Nationalism, if persisted in, is destined soon to wreck our entire structure of Western civilization," he said in an address read to the Foreign Trade Association by Francis B. Sayre, Assistant Secretary of State.

GOING AHEAD WITH PLANS

Manchukuo Is Disregarding Protests Against Proposed Oil Monopoly in State

TOKIO, Nov. 1 (AP).—Heedless of protests from foreign interests, Manchukuo is going right ahead with preparations to put into effect its proposed oil monopoly.

The Manchukuo government has already taken steps to eliminate the Standard Oil Company of New York and the British Asiatic Petroleum Company from distributing and retailing operations in Manchukuo. It was reliably learned here today.

DONE DESPITE PROTESTS

This is being done despite representations from the United States, Great Britain and the Netherlands. In moving to take over the two companies' extensive facilities, Manchukuo notified them that the monopoly would be instituted "in the very near future" and that "in all probability the present marketing and selling system will be greatly changed." Previously native agents of the two concerns were instructed to come to Hsingking to confer on their status on the new monopoly.

Protests at Manchukuo's action have been based on the charge that it violates the open door policy enunciated in the Nine Power Treaty, while the new Government, in its defence, has flooded the Japanese press with statements purporting to show the necessity "for stabilizing national life and the promotion of cultural development."

British and American in Full Accord

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP).—Opposition to Japanese proposals for new methods of naval limitation was reaffirmed tonight, after a long meeting between Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, and Norman Davis, of the United States.

The situation was thoroughly discussed but the two men were unable to find the basis of a compromise approach.

The British delegates are next meeting with the Japanese in the hope of finding some method of reconciling the different views. Tonight's meeting was described as a heart-to-heart discussion very satisfactory to both British and American delegates.

Hull rested in Pinchurst, N.C., recovering from bronchial trouble, which, it was feared, might be aggravated by the strain of a long speech.

"In entering upon the negotiation of trade agreements, authorized by the act of June 12, of this year, we are willing frankly to admit that we have erred in the past, that we have now repented," Hull's address said.

WOULD UNDO DAMAGE
"Just as we set the vicious example of erecting trade barriers of high tariffs, which induced others to follow us, so now we are asking other nations to join us in an attempt to undo the damage our collective action has worked."

"We wish to break down all the artificial and excessive impediments to the free way of world commerce, not only in our own interest, but for the benefit of all others as well, since only by restoring the whole world can individual countries hope to remain economically healthy long."

FAMOUS FLYERS PLAN LONG HOP

Ulm, With Littlejohn and Skilling, Will Link Canada With Australia

Possibilities of an all-Empire route entered the realm of probabilities with the arrival here of Leon J. Skilling from Australia, last evening. While he would not discuss the reasons for the flight, he stated that a plane would be flown from some point on the West Coast of Canada to Australia in the near future.

The plan is to take off this year, it was gathered, from a location yet to be chosen. Charles T. P. Ulm, famous Australian flyer and former partner of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, planning the venture, George M. Littlejohn will be copilot, and Skilling will go as navigator.

PLANE TESTED

Ulm and Littlejohn are at present in England, where they have tested and taken delivery of the plane with which they will make the flight. Mr. Skilling stated that this was an Airspeed "Envoy," manufactured by the Airspeed Company, England, and was particularly well-adapted for a flight such as the party contemplates.

The navigator said he could not say until he had received cables which were awaiting him at Vancouver, when the plane would leave start its ship, or where it would start its flight from officially—Montreal or Vancouver. He was not in a position to discuss the matter, at all, he stated. Wing-Commander Ulm was looking after all arrangements, and was the only member of the party who could speak with any authority. He had received orders to join Ulm at Montreal, and he was on his way there.

NINE IN RUNNING FOR RACE PRIZES

Jones and Waller Delayed at Athens But Expect to End Return Flight Today

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP).—The great England-to-Australia air race is ready to gasp out its official life-time within a few days, with nine finishers in the running today for five money prizes.

No planes have crossed the finish line at Melbourne since Lieut. M. Hansen took eighth place last night, but J. D. Hewitt, of New Zealand, is expected at Melbourne tomorrow, from Cloncurry.

Interest centred on the flight back to England of Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller. Bad weather forced them to land at Athens today, but if they can reach England by noon tomorrow, they will establish a round-trip run of about thirteen days.

Government Passes First Market Plan Under B.C. Statute

Care Taken to Guard Against Monopoly in Giving Tree-Fruit Control Into Hands of First Domestic Commodity Board—Levies for Funds

BRITISH Columbia's first domestic marketing scheme was launched by the Government yesterday in final form. W. E. Haskins, O. W. Hembling and G. A. Barrat were appointed as a provisional "British Columbia Tree-Fruit Board," with control over Eastern, Mainline and Okanagan tree-fruit areas, grouped in one scheme. These areas have an estimated production of 6,504 carloads of fruit this season, against which the board may levy, under Federal enactment, up to two cents per box for working expenses.

The salient powers of the tree-fruit board under provincial statute, are contained in two paragraphs, known as Clause 6 and Clause 7. They contain an express prohibition against discrimination of established marketing agencies, which bans central selling.

consult with the commodity board, the latter to be composed of actual registered growers only.

Two forms of balloting are provided. The first calls for a meeting of the official delegates of growers now to be registered to ratify the provisional commodity board, or set up a new one. This meeting is called an electing convention, and will also have power to fix the salaries of any board so created.

SMALL ELECTORAL COLLEGE
Registered growers will appoint delegates, who are to meet at Kelowna, much in the form of an electoral college, and each delegate will have as many votes as there are growers sending him to the meeting. The electing convention is to be repeated annually, before May 31 in each season.

The second form of ballot affords opportunity for recall of the whole scheme, provision being made for a direct vote by registered growers with adequate notice before March 31 next, to say whether or not the scheme shall be continued. Growers, through the levy per box, will pay the running expenses of the plan.

In launching the scheme, after approval by the Provincial Marketing Board, the Minister of Agriculture and the Cabinet, the Government printed the entire text in The British Columbia Gazette, issued yesterday, and ordered publication in The Vernon News and The Creston Review, at its own expense. Additional copies were sent to the tree-fruit board for publication in other papers, if growers deem necessary.

DOMESTIC SALES
The British Columbia tree-fruit scheme will have dominion over 15 per cent of the crop from the area specified, or that part sold in British Columbia. Forty-five per cent of the product is sold elsewhere in Canada, and the remaining 40 per cent exported, under Federal regulations.

It was unofficially estimated here that if a levy of 2 cents per box were made by the commodity board, it would create a working capital of $80,000 per annum, based on this year's production. The board would require, conversely, to save the amount of the levy before net benefits could be returned to the growers from any price stability through orderly marketing.

In confirming passage of the scheme by the Cabinet, Hon. K. C. MacDonald intimated the Government had been careful to stay within provincial rights, after inclusion of several clauses deemed necessary as checks and safeguards against creation of a monopoly.

R. B. HANSON GETS PORTFOLIO OFFER

The general election struggle, which must come within the next twelve months. Grotte Sterling, Conservative member for Yale, is held to be the probable choice as a Cabinet representative for British Columbia.

Following up his letter to Conservative members, urging them to organize their constituencies, written by Prime Minister Bennett on the eve of his departure for Europe at the end of August, there has been constant activity along these lines since his return.

CONSERVATIVES GATHER
Ottawa is rapidly filling up with Conservative members from various parts of the Dominion, and several sectional meetings are to be held here as a preliminary to general organization and selection of a party organizer.

Colonel Henry A. Mullins, M.P. for Marquette, whose name has frequently been mentioned in connection with Senate appointments and the post of Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, reached the capital today and will be here for some time.

Hon. Raymond Morand (Exco East), one of the stalwarts of Western Ontario, also arrived today, as did J. Earl Lawson (York West), and Dr. M. J. Maloney (Renfrew South). Onesime Gannon (Dorchester), also made several appointments with officials here. He is being urged for a Cabinet post in case one of the French ministers goes to the Senate.

Most of the visitors who could be designated as party leaders are from Ontario, and much of the discussion apparently has to do with provincial as well as Dominion politics.

SAYS NOTHING DECIDED

MONTREAL, Nov. 1 (CP).—On his way home to Fredericton to consult his wife and business associates on the possibility of accepting a portfolio in the Bennett Cabinet, R. B. Hanson, Conservative member of Parliament for York-Sunbury, who has been mentioned as successor to Hon. H. H. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce, passed through here, tonight. Mr. Hanson said he and Premier R. B. Bennett had conferred on the matter, but that nothing had been decided.

"But in the event of your entering the Cabinet, what portfolio would you take?" he was asked.

"Rumor says trade and commerce," he answered. "That would suit me all right—I think I could fill the job."

Mr. Hanson expressed regret that incidents and circumstances had culminated in the retirement of Mr. Stevens from the Ministry. "I am very sorry it happened," he said, "and I feel it could have been averted."

A VALUABLE MAN

Mr. Stevens, he declared, "has always been a valuable man—a great platform speaker, and a keen and ready mind in debate."

Woman Ascends Into Stratosphere

Drifting more than 200 miles from their Detroit take-off, Dr. Jean Picard and his wife, Jeanette, as assistant pilot, sent their balloon soaring ten miles into the stratosphere, during the first flight ever attempted by a woman, before their gondola dropped into a wood near Cadix, Ohio. Left, shows Mrs. Picard leaning out of the aluminum car for cameramen after her lofty adventure; right, a view of the silk bag hanging from the trees.

that Mr. Stevens was considering the possibility of heading a new political group. "If he should do so—but I certainly don't think he will—I doubt that he will be successful. Parliamentary history seems to show that Cabinet ministers who break away from their affiliations, and try to form new parties, are soon submerged."

Mr. Hanson had nothing but praise for Major W. W. Kennedy, M.P. for Winnipeg South Centre. Mr. Stevens' successor as chairman of the price spreads and mass buying investigation committee.

The investigation headed by Mr. Stevens, he declared, had been both a good and necessary affair. It had the support of the Government, and Mr. Stevens had that support also, he added. Great evils had been revealed at the probe, he said.

CONSTITUTIONAL DIFFICULTY
"When it comes to considering what action is to be taken, however, the constitutional difficulty arises," he continued. "Mainly these matters lie within the jurisdiction of the provinces, in fact the provinces should be doing this work. For instance, the Dominion jurisdiction, as a Privy Council judgment has already decided."

"There are other remedial measures at our disposal, however, and not the least of these is publicity. The newspapers can be of great value in this case."

MUNICIPAL VOTERS GIVE LABOR GAINS

London elections were complete, but elsewhere only one-third of the council membership was to be decided.

In Derby, Labor gained five council seats from the Conservatives and two from the Liberals, getting a majority over all. The new Derby council consists of thirty-five Laborites, twenty-one Conservatives and six Liberals.

In Birkenhead, Labor gained seven seats from Conservatives, making the standing in the new council: Labor thirty-two, Conservatives thirty-one, Liberals one.

Camberwell in the London area gave Labor twenty-two gains from the Municipal Reform group, making the new council standing: Labor 36, Municipal Reform 24.

Other London boroughs followed in general the trend of Labor. In Greenwich Labor gained five seats, making the standing: Labor 9 and Municipal Reform 21 seats, with the representation unchanged.

Elsewhere in London district results completed were as follows, with Labor gains, standing of the Labor and Municipal Reform groups respectively:

PETITIONING KING FOR SECESSION

Special Delegation From Western Australia Presents Case to Secretary for Dominions

LONDON, Nov. 1 (CP).—A petition to the King and the British Parliament from the States of Western Australia, seeking approval of secession from the Commonwealth of Australia, was presented today by the special delegation, to Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions.

Accompanying the petition is a volume setting out the people's case for secession, and asking that Western Australia be restored to its old status as a self-governing colony in the British Empire. Secession was given a 2 to 1 vote of approval in a special plebiscite some months ago.

The minister undertook to communicate the petition to His Majesty.

POTATO SHOW BIG SUCCESS

Tubers Featured at Conference Held at Sidney—Prizes Given

Reviewing the advances made in agricultural methods in Canada since Confederation, Hon. K. C. McDonald, Minister of Agriculture, delivered an interesting address, last night, at the potato conference, held at Sidney. The minister emphasized that problems incidental to production were small in comparison with those connected with marketing. There was, he believed, a tendency towards improved conditions for the agriculturist. Governments were studying closely the best methods of bringing returns to the producers, and it was expected that as a result there would be a betterment in marketing.

The minister, in distributing prizes to the winners in the contest conducted by the North Saanich Boys' Club in the production of potatoes, not only paid tribute to the skill and enterprise of the youthful competitors, but to the talent instanced in papers read to the conference by the youthful farmers. He described how science was being applied to production, and told of results achieved in a laboratory in Vancouver, which he recently visited, where application of new principles were attaining remarkable results in ripening fruits and vegetables, as well as forcing growth.

PRIZE WINNERS

Prizes were awarded to G. Wilson, 236 points; H. Smethurst, 230 1-2; C. Lines, 227; R. Marshall, 225 1-2; while L. Dawes and K. Tuttle divided the fifth honors with 221 1-2 points.

Cecil Tice, of the Department of Agriculture, told in a most interesting manner, the story of the work of the boys' clubs.

B. A. McKelvie, managing editor of The Colonist, reviewed the history of the potato in British Columbia from the days when the Indians sought a native variety of tubers, to the days when white man's civilization was firmly established on the Coast.

An exceptionally fine supper was served, all the dishes being made from potatoes.

L. C. Taylor acted as a most capable chairman, and paid compliment to the work of E. R. Hall, club leader, and H. S. MacLeod, judge of the competition.

Valuable Find Made Of Early B.C. Files Depicting Gold Rush

Nine Douglas Letters, First Provincial Proclamations, and Ledgers for Collection of Customs and "Sufferances" Placed in Archives

BRITISH Columbia's archives were richer this week through discovery of original letters, proclamations and ledgers dating back to the gold rush days, found when record files from one department of the Province were being moved.

The first seventy-five proclamations, and detailed corroboration of the tions passed in British Columbia, collection of "sufferances" from nine letters relating to customs and foreign vessels entering the Fraser, signed by Governor Sir James Douglas, a register of shipping and Kaye Lamb, provincial archivist clearances out of Victoria in 1858, and librarian.

It will require weeks to catalogue the data.

DOUGLAS LETTERS

The Douglas letters were part of a series of fifty-five epistles written between 1858 and 1859, dealing with collection of customs on the Fraser during the gold rush. Their full contents are expected to throw light on a period about which much is already known, but in the record of which there are still blank spaces. The letters were contained in a single bound file.

Another book contained a complete set of the first seventy-five proclamations issued by British Columbia, concerning the Mainland area, from November, 1858, to March, 1864. Proclamation No. 1 was the revocation of the licence of the Hudson's Bay Company for exclusive trading with the Indians in British Columbia. More valuable still was an untruncated order dealing with the setting up of law courts in the province, in its original form.

Two registers deal with the entry of vessels at the Customs House.

Introduced to Chancellor

In accordance with ancient procedure, the Lord Mayor-Elect of London is introduced to the Lord Chancellor at the House of Lords by the recorder of London. Sir Stephen Killick and Lady Killick are seen leaving the House of Lords in traditional costume after the ceremony.

Victoria, between 1852 and 1856, wherein the Beaver, Otter and famous old craft are logged in succession. Clearances from the port of Victoria between 1858 to 1859 are contained in the second volume of this series, and show the departure of many vessels for the Fraser, carrying gold miners who had made Victoria their base and outfitting point.

Between July 13, 1858, and June, 1859, some 597 entries were made of foreign vessels passing up the Fraser, whose masters paid $522 in total for "sufferances" collected by the Province, a fifth record shows.

BITTEREST CAMPAIGN IN YEARS IS CLOSING

Progressive, but declared by his opponents to be an "ultra-radical" seeking election. He is opposed by a number of New Dealers, Charles H. Martin, Democrat; by Joe E. Dunne, Republican of Liberal views, and by three minor candidates.

SEEKING ELECTION
Five United States senators and thirty-five members of the Lower House will be selected in the seven Far Western states. Three Democratic senator incumbents ask reelection—Henry F. Ashurst, of Arizona; Key Pittman, of Nevada, and William H. King, of Utah. All are opposed. Hiram W. Johnson, of California, Republican who supported Roosevelt two years ago, already is assured of return to the Senate as he won the Democratic and Republican nominations.

The senatorial fight is the key contest in Washington. Senator C. C. Dill, Democrat, retired, and the office is sought by two comparatively young men. They are L. B. Schwellenbach, Democrat, described as a Liberal, and Rensselaer, Republican, who has attacked the recovery programme.

Party lines have been effaced in the bitter fight in California that finds Sinclair opposed by Acting Governor Frank P. Merriam, Republican, and Raymond L. Haight, Commonwealth and Progressive nominees.

JOIN OTHER CAMP
One by one many prominent state Democratic leaders have gone over to the Republican camp with such comment as "patriotism is stronger than the stubborn blindness of party regularity."

First withholding support and taking a passive attitude, the Washington administration finally came out with a virtual repudiation of Sinclair.

Merriam, asserting the struggle was not along party lines, said he was "receiving vigorous support" of Democrats who "are not deserting their party" nor "voicing disapproval of the Government at Washington."

The religious angle was injected through criticism of Sinclair's writings. He replied that his enemies had distorted his meanings.

"NEFARIOUS INFLUENCE"

Film has reverberated with Sinclair's charges that the movie industry wielded "a nefarious influence" in politics and should be under Federal supervision.

Intimidation of movie stars sympathetic to Sinclair, with Katharine Hepburn named "as an example of an employee so threatened," was another accusation hurled. It was made by David Sokol, attorney. He asked the district attorney for a grand jury investigation.

ARMS TRAFFIC TO BE WELL AIRED

British Government Has Nothing to Conceal and Will Facilitate Investigation

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP).—The British Government, having "nothing whatever to conceal," plans to give all factions opportunity thoroughly to air the international arms traffic situation.

A statement Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made in the House of Commons indicated that Great Britain, several of whose armaments firms were mentioned in the Washington arms inquiry, is desirous of having the entire situation searchingly reviewed.

The Prime Minister's declaration that the Government has "nothing whatever to conceal" followed hard on the heels of assertions by Sir Bolton Eves-Monell, First Lord of the Admiralty, that allegations that Vickers-Armstrong, British munitions firm, had a "friend in the admiralty," were untrue.

NOW REPENTANT FOR HIGH TARIFFS RACE

GREAT PEACEMAKER

He characterized orderly international trade as "one of the greatest educators, civilizers and peace-makers" and said "a hermit nation means a hermit civilization."

Hull pointed out that after the war the United States played the "merry game of booming business by both selling on credit and buying from ourselves" through loans to foreign nations.

When it was found that many of the loans could not be immediately repaid, he said, "a great deal of our glittering volume of exports became simply a present of several billion dollars worth of commodities to other people."

BOOMERANG EFFECT

Turning to the 1930 tariff act, he said:

"Slamming the door shut against foreign products, we have found the door shut against our own products."

Regimentation of foreign trade, he said, resulted eventually in a regimentation of domestic trade and consumption, a condition which he decried.

"We are seeking to rehabilitate international commerce in a way that will benefit not a single nation, but all nations, not a group of nations, but the whole world."

He called attention to the low level of world trade, and added: "The causes of the decline are various, but among the most serious of them are the unnecessary and artificial barriers which hamper the healthy interchange of commodities. 'As you are aware, this Government has given zealous attention to the problem and under authority of the Trade Agreements Act is seeking to make arrangements with other countries, designed to improve existing conditions.'

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT

President Roosevelt, in a telegram to James A. Farrell, chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council, said:

"We are seeking to rehabilitate international commerce in a way that will benefit not a single nation, but all nations, not a group of nations, but the whole world."

He called attention to the low level of world trade, and added:

"The causes of the decline are various, but among the most serious of them are the unnecessary and artificial barriers which hamper the healthy interchange of commodities. 'As you are aware, this Government has given zealous attention to the problem and under authority of the Trade Agreements Act is seeking to make arrangements with other countries, designed to improve existing conditions.'

WANTS CONCERNED ACTION

"Our object is to secure concerted action to untangle the network of existing restrictions. Just as the sudden falling off in domestic economy of all countries, so revival of world trade should have a favorable influence on domestic recovery everywhere."

"Swift communications have made us all near neighbors. They should also make us good neighbors."

Rev. C. M. Ward Relinquishes Pastorate to Join Staff of Pentecostal Testimony

Rev. C. M. Ward, minister of the Pentecostal Assembly, Broad Street, is giving up pastoral work to go into journalism as editor of Pentecostal Testimony, a weekly paper published in Toronto.

Coming here nearly four years ago from Woodstock, Ontario, Mr. Ward has greatly advanced the Pentecostal cause in this city during his term of service. He has also been in demand to conduct evangelistic services in various parts of Canada.

His appointment as editor was made at the recent meeting of the General Conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, held at Winnipeg. With Mrs. Ward he will say farewell to his congregation next Sunday, and will take up his work in Toronto during the middle of December.

dred feet apart and a partridge took flight some yards ahead of Mr. Nichol. He fired but missed. As he was holding the gun by the barrel in the act of changing his position, the butt struck the ground and the resultant jar apparently released the firing hammer.

Both Mr. Carmichael and Mr. McIlreath saw the accident, and while the former rushed to the side of the stricken man, Mr. McIlreath ran to a farmhouse a quarter of a mile away to phone for medical aid.

DIES WITHIN HOUR

Mr. McIlreath, at the farmhouse, jumped into Mr. Nichol's automobile, which had been parked there, and drove the machine across three fields to the wounded man. Placing Mr. Nichol in the auto, Mr. McIlreath drove to Rest Haven, but the hunter was dead on arrival.

Mr. Nichol, retired, had resided in Saanich for two years and prior to that time lived for a year in Victoria. He was an ardent outdoorsman, spending most of his time in the fields, woods and streams.

He is survived by his widow, who lives at the family residence on Borden Avenue, his mother, brother and a sister, all in Montreal.

Before coming to the city, he resided for many years in Montreal. He was a graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

THE ISSUE IS FREEDOM

General Smuts says that the issue of freedom is the most fundamental one of all our civilization and it has been squarely raised again by what is happening in the world today. The danger signals, he says, are up "in many colors and in many lands." There is a new tyranny which is enticing youth everywhere into its service. "The road to Caesarism lies clear. The disappearance of the sturdy, independent-minded freedom-loving individual and his replacement by a servile mass-mentality is the greatest human menace of our times. Here we reach what I firmly believe is the heart of the problem, the issue round which the greatest battles of this and the coming generations will be fought—if the cause of our civilization itself is to be saved."

General Smuts was speaking in his capacity as Lord Rector at the University of St. Andrew's. He was surveying the condition of the European world today. His belief is that freedom must make a great counterstroke to save itself and Western civilization, and the call is to youth. He points out that the ancient homelands of freedom in the West are not yet seriously threatened but over large parts of Europe the cult of force—what in the Great War was called Prussianism—has for the moment triumphed. "Popular self-government and Parliaments are disappearing. The guarantees for private rights and civil liberties are going. Minorities are trampled upon; dissident views are not tolerated and are forcibly suppressed. Intellectual freedom is disappearing with political freedom. Freedom of conscience, of speech, of the press, of thought and teaching is in extreme danger. Even freedom of religion is no longer safe and religious persecution, after being long considered obsolete, once more shows its horrid head. In many, if not most European countries the standard of human freedom has already fallen far below that of the nineteenth century."

GERMANY'S RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

The tide is running at the moment in favor of religious liberty in Germany. Police surveillance has been withdrawn from Bishop Meiser of Bavaria, one of the dissenting leaders. For the first time in nearly three months the Protestant churches last Sunday flew their white flag with the purple cross alongside the swastika. More significant is the resignation of Dr. August Jaeger, the right-hand man of Reichsbishop Müller in his policy of forcing the churches into a united obedience to the Nazi regime. The latest despatch is still more indicative of a loosening of what the new Confessional Synod termed the "unseemly absolutism" of the Reichsbishop. It states that Reichsführer Hitler, after hearing leaders of the dissenting synod, has decided to let the opposing parties settle the controversy within the church.

This attitude on the part of Herr Hitler, if it should be maintained, would be a great departure from the present status. It would in fact be a reversion of both Nazi policy and church tradition. As the Associated Press correspondent hints, the decision seems to involve the separation of church and state. To let the church pass from under state control, at least in part, would cripple the Nazi programme, which centres all the nation's interests on the state. This was the motive that drew together some twenty-eight religious bodies into the German Evangelical Church. On the other hand, complete separation of the church is not congenial to the German temper. It would also cut off many sources of income. While many sections of the Christian Church at large might consider the disestablishment would be beneficial to Germany's spiritual life, it would be a revolutionary step on the part of the German church, and one it may not be prepared to take at present.

THE LEVELLER

The levellers made a greater stir in the England of the seventeenth century than their modern representatives do today. The name itself has dropped out of use, but the spirit still lives. When Cromwell overthrew and beheaded Charles, the fountains of the political deep were broken up, and it was a "near thing" for law and order in England. It was only by the firmness of the Protector that the levellers were crushed and the danger averted. Since the Great War there have been revolutions and counter-revolutions in many countries of Europe.

The leveller desires to achieve a state of society in which there shall be no subordination or grading of classes or individuals. He believes that it is possible for human beings to get on together without any system of subordination or superiority. The cold facts are against him. No community known to history has, even for a brief period, succeeded in establishing such a system. The scientific backbone of government is the principle of authority. In its nature authority is a unifying and conserving principle. It keeps the forces of disintegration in check. The role of authority in social affairs is to equalize the motion of the social machinery, of which it is the fly-wheel. Authority naturally works through several channels; through the influence of the home, by the conventions of the social world of dress and behavior, in the traditions of the Church, through the customs of trade and industry, by way of habit in obedience to law. The leveller has thus undertaken a practically hopeless task in attempting to undermine a principle that has its origin in the social nature of mankind.

His efforts in the field of economics are directed towards abolishing interest. He desires to destroy the motive for saving in order that the idle and thriftless may find themselves on the same plane with the industrious and thrifty. He is active also in the educational field on the side of some so-called educational reforms, such as the proposal to abolish home-work, final examinations, and fixed courses of study. He advocates the elective system in its crudest form, with complete equality between one subject and another. In his plan dietetics, clay modeling, and playing the saxophone rank along with Latin, mathematics, and philosophy in educational value. The leveller is never so happy as when he seeks to undermine authority in every field of effort, educational, economic, political. Social progress is possible only as a result of the severe discipline of hard work and competitive effort. The leveller is opposed to, and seeks to prohibit, all conventional practices, habits, customs, and laws that make for human progress.

SOVIET RAZOR BLADES

The problem of what to do with old razor blades may be solved. A Reuter message says that the "shaving situation" is "exceedingly sharp" in Moscow where "a despairing cry has gone up from suffering multitudes who have been trying to shave with razors of Soviet manufacture." Pravda says there are three reasons why Russians do not shave. One is laziness, the second a desire to appear too busy to shave, and the third is, fear—evidently even brazen Communists cower before the dull, blunt edges of the Soviet razor blades. Here then are explanations why Russians have become hairier and shaggier than ever before.

A correspondent of Pravda says: "I want to shave, I want to look neat, but the razor blades are too much for me." The last time he braved one of them he stood the torture for some time, but when half through he could endure it no longer and went to work with half his face shaved though hacked up and the other half sporting a growth of beard. Reports from Moscow show that English razor blades are highly prized. Probably those discarded are keen and well tempered as compared with the Soviet product. The Moscow dispatch says that the gift of a blade marked "Sheffield" is enough to make a man your friend for life.

FOR THE MOON

Old as the earth are a lover's words,
Old as its hills are his melodies;
And still the youngest of April's birds
Whistle them over the budding trees,
Scatter them into the dawning breeze.

Years cannot crumble their ancient art,
Years cannot lessen their wild perfume;
Still does the moon to its well-loved heart
Offer the vow of the bride, the groom—
Seemingly new as the lilacs bloom!

Old they be as the seas and trails,
But still my hands and heart and eyes
Come on the place where your beauty pales
And find in wonder and mute surprise
An unknown magic beneath the skies!

—Bert Cookley in The New York Times.

Thou who hast

The fatal gift of beauty.

Note and Comment

By R. A. D.

Faith, thou hast some crochets in thy head now.

—Shakespeare.

The good old earth, the mother of all things, never faileth to give forth of her increase. The annual harvest may not always be one of abundance, but it is never an absolute failure. Stony ground is sometimes very fertile, although the farmer who digs it and plants it generally complains that he could do very well without the annual crop of rocks he must gather in order to protect his agricultural implements.

The political field seems to be the most productive of all fields, and the crops it produces are not all weeds, to be rooted out and ruthlessly destroyed. Survey the political field today, and you will see a prolific crop of new politicians, all proclaiming new doctrines for the salvation of the state and the prosperity and happiness of the people. We have them in all parts of Canada, and they have them in the United States, in Europe, and in all parts of the world.

Possibly the worst enemy of the practical farmer is the thistle, for it is very tenacious of life, is apt to extend its boundaries, and is the hardest of all members of the vegetable kingdom to root out. You may try to dig it out or poison it at the roots, but it has made such effective provision for the perpetuation of its species that it will bob up serenely with the advent of the season of growth and not be found lacking with the arrival of the season of the harvest.

Of course it would never do to apply the above figure of speech to the political soil of British Columbia. Neither would it do to suggest, say, that Mr. Gerry McGeer or Rev. Robert Connell, the most prominent figures in the advanced school of politicians, are merely weeds in our fair field—for they are flowers that bloom, whether perennially or briefly we shall not venture to say, or whether they are likely to produce fruits or seeds, it would be hazardous to predict. Possibly they may be the harbingers of a new political order, the leaders in an economic revolution. If we cannot agree with them, probably we shall have to endure them.

It may be that the political exotics here and elsewhere have been sent abroad for the purpose of removing something which may be a reproach to any people: the apathy which hitherto has prevailed on the subject of politics. We have repeatedly been told that hardly anybody in Victoria or in the regions around Victoria takes the slightest interest in politics; that if a writer desires to be read he should not write about politics. That state of mind is dangerous if what has been said about it is true, for we can never have good government, efficient and honest, unless the people are vigilant in their scrutiny of the actions of politicians. So it may be that the new politicians have been sent for the purpose of arousing the interest of the masses of the people in public affairs.

Eternal vigilance is not only the price of political liberties; it is the price of personal liberties. The people of California are aroused today as they never were aroused before over the candidature of a political exotic for the important position of governor of the state. For the hitherto somewhat conservative state of California should elect a Socialist as governor, it is felt that almost anything of a revolutionary nature may happen in the other states. It is this possibility which has compelled President Roosevelt as the leader of the Democratic or orthodox party to withdraw his support from Mr. Upton Sinclair.

Akin to what Mr. Sinclair has done for the people of California, another political exotic of the weed family has done for the people of Ontario. Mr. Mitchell Hepburn has aroused the interest of the people of the province of Ontario in the methods of practical politicians. There has not been such a political flare-up in Ontario since the days when the Ross Liberal government began to fall to pieces from sheer rottenness and the Drury farmers' government fell as a result of demonstrated ministerial incompetence and corruption. So the people of Ontario are watching with bated breath the setting up of a new and complete political machine and wondering what will happen to the machinery when the wheels begin to turn and accelerate in speed.

The political field at Ottawa is also beginning to produce crops of strange politicians. Cabinet ministers are not exotics, and they cannot say the thing they will unless they are prepared to meet the consequences. The constitutional rule that there must be cabinet solidarity both of word and deed may be obsolete, but it is established upon ancient precedent and must prevail.

A BRIGHTER VICTORIA

Sir,—I was very much interested in an article published in The Buzzer re profits from better lighting. What we need here in Victoria is more and better lighting. This will help business by making people feel brighter and more cheerful, and help in many directions to banish the very bad effects of depression and pessimism.

All we can do for Victoria to make it bigger and better should be done. Business houses in all principal cities on this continent find it to their advantage to keep their show windows fully illuminated until midnight on account of the vast number of people who like to be downtown and indulge in window shopping at night, and then on the other hand what a bad impression tourists and visitors must have when they have to go around in almost stygian darkness. As one visitor remarked, one almost needs a lantern to find your way about this town. Is it any wonder tourists look upon Victoria as a hick town?

We should hope that our aldermanic board will give every bit of its possible support to the city electrician, and see to it that in the forthcoming year enough provision is made in the city's budget to take care of the fullest possible illumination of our city.

We would like to see Victoria take its rightful place as the best show place in the Dominion, and not made a joke of as a two-by-four hick town. Let us adopt the slogan, "Turn on the lights."

Yours for a brighter and better Victoria,
TOOLEY FISH,

SELF PRESERVATION

Sir,—May I be allowed space to answer Mr. Weston's jocular criticism as to why an organization such as the Self Preservation League, should be put into operation in our midst in order to obtain more tangible results pertaining to the paramount question confronting the citizens as a whole, the unemployment problem. Only too true the fish is present in the shape of the real reef, the unemployment trail, therefore it naturally follows the odor arising from the fish is ever present.

Mr. E. H. Crorey has the opportunity to extend thanks to Mr. E. H. Crorey for solving the problem for me. In the past, on different occasions, I have been disturbed from slumber by the hideous noises made by the feline species. Being in possession of a musical ear, the keynote of the theme surely denoted a certain percentage of the male chorus of the said species. Hence the lower form of life in our midst recognizes the primary law for mankind and animal life, being the first law of nature—self-preservation.

WANTS RELEASE FROM DAMAGES

Department of Public Works in B.C. Presents Request to Railway Board

At the brief sitting of the Board of Railway Commissioners held in the Court of Appeal, room in the Court House, yesterday, the Provincial Department of Public Works, through W. B. Colvin, of the Attorney-General's department, placed before the three members of the board an application affecting use of the bridge across part of Nechako River near Prince George. The bridge was erected for use by the general public and has been utilized in part as a means for carrying a spur line of the C.N.R. to the Alexander Saw Mills.

In the first instance the Department of Public Works, declared Mr. Colvin, put up the bridge, the mill supplying the lumber. There was on file, said Mr. Colvin, a letter in which the railway solicitor, H. C. Hamilton, expressed agreement with the request made by the department to be relieved from any liability for injuries to anyone by reason of the railway using the bridge.

The application of Mr. Colvin was for the granting of an order to provide that the Alexander Saw Mills, Ltd., shall indemnify the Province in respect of any personal injury to persons using the bridge over the high water channel of the Nechako River, and the maintenance of the bridge and approach thereto.

The deputy chief commissioner, F. N. Garneau, who presided here, promised to acquaint the department with the decision when it had been reached.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"INSULT"
"Give me thy knife and I will insult on him," says one of Shakespeare's characters, using the word of "to attack," a significance which has survived largely in a figurative sense.

For we have "insult" from the Latin "insultare," meaning "to leap to jump upon." This was the sense it disseminated as recently as the Elizabethan era, particularly in military usage.

At about this time, the connotation of physical assault, that is, assault upon the body, became submerged in the thought of injury to the sensibilities more than to the person. So that today the word "insult" has retained both its old and its acquired sense—indicating injury to either the feelings or the physique—or both—through being treated with contempt, by means of either word or action, by the tongue or the laying on of hands.

More General Support Of Welfare Fund Asked

Five Thousand Residents of Greater Victoria Area Circularized With Appeal for Subscriptions Toward Friendly Help Campaign Objective

Early response to a circularized appeal for funds to enable welfare organizations throughout the Greater Victoria area is asked by Stewart Clark, campaign manager for the Friendly Help Welfare campaign. The objective is $45,500, and up to the close of yesterday only $19,756.33 had been collected as the third week of the campaign neared its close.

Despite urgent appeals for more general support only 600 persons have so far contributed to the fund. "There must be more generous and widespread support or the work of the organizations will be jeopardized during the next twelve months," Mr. Clark stated.

PLEDGES ASKED

"We ask all who intend to subscribe, whether they wish to do so now or at a later date, to get in touch with headquarters, Room 6, Winch Building, and let us know how much they will pledge themselves for. This is most necessary if we are to have an assurance that there will be sufficient funds with which to carry on," Mr. Clark stated.

Circulars have been mailed to some 5,000 residents, and those who have received the appeals are asked to get in touch with headquarters and let the officials of the campaign know just how much they can subscribe either now or at a later date.

DONATION LIST

Following were the subscriptions acknowledged yesterday: Previously acknowledged, $19,599. E. M. M. $2; Mrs. A. H. Tanner, $5; Dr. W. F. G. Johnson, $5; Mrs. Frank Richardson, $5; G. M. ## A. A. LEFURGEY IS CALLED BY DEATH

Was Formerly Member of Prince Edward Island and Dominion Legislatures

VANCOUVER, Nov. 1 (AP).—Alfred Alexander Lefurgey, sixty-three, prominent Vancouver business man and former member of the Prince Edward Island Legislature and of the House of Commons, is dead here.

Born in Summerside, P.E.I., son of the late Hon. John Lefurgey and Dorothea Read, he was educated at St. Dunstan's College, Charlottetown, and at Mount Allison University. He took his LL.B. degree at Harvard.

While at Harvard, Mr. Lefurgey took an active part in athletics, establishing an inter-collegiate record for the 100-yards dash and capturing the Harvard 220-yard race in his senior year.

CONSERVATIVE WHIP

In 1904, he was elected to the House of Commons for the constituency of Prince, P.E.I., holding the seat for four years. During this period, he was Conservative whip for the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Lefurgey came here in 1909, and, in partnership with his brother, the late J. E. Lefurgey, carried on a general financial and real estate business.

He was a member of the Rideau Club, Ottawa; the University Club, Montreal; and the Jericho Country Club, here. He was also a prominent shiner and a thirty-second degree Mason.

His widow and one daughter survive here, and a son, John, lives in New Guinea. Three sisters, Rosara and Cecelia, at Summerside, P.E.I., and Dorothy at Davenport, Iowa, also survive.

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 1. — Alleged discrimination was the reason for a strike vote taken here last night of miners working in local collieries. By a majority of forty-two it was decided that there should be no strike. The vote was 264 to 222, with seven spoiled ballots.

ARCHBISHOP REACHES SEVENTY-FIRST YEAR

Mrs. J. Dennis Is Taken by Death At Home in City

Mrs. Roomand Charlotte Dennis, wife of Jesse Dennis, 2721 Quadra Street, passed away, yesterday, at the family residence.

FEDERAL LIST IS INCREASED

Enumerators Compile Roster of 28,576 Eligible Electors in Victoria

There are 28,576 individuals on the new Federal voters' list in Victoria riding, James Wilson, registrar of voters, said yesterday. The list will be subject to additions and subtractions between November 5 and 15, which corrections may be filed by the electors in person.

As the new Federal riding takes in Esquimalt Municipality and the Saanich wedge between the city and Oak Bay, as well as all of the former riding of Victoria City and Oak Bay, some increase in enrollment over provincial tallies had been expected.

The actual increase for the sum total of enumerators' rolls in 105 polling divisions, is 6,900 names. The last provincial list had 23,576 names, compared with 28,576 on the current Federal list, subject to revision as explained.

Courts of revision will follow in three revisional areas in the next few weeks, the details of which will be supplied later. Revision in Area One will commence on November 5, in Area Two on November 8, and in Area Three on November 13. Public notices show polling divisions in each area.

Electors have the right to appear in person at these courts, or in the event of disability, may be represented by a relative or an employer. Women will be listed by their husbands' names.

SAID HE FELT FINE

REGINA, Nov. 1 (CP). — Unconscious for sixteen days, twelve-year-old Donald Snider, Lestock, sat up in bed, yawned, stretched and told his physician he felt "fine." The boy's skull was fractured in a motor accident.

B.C. FISHERIES ARE PERPETUAL

George J. Alexander Says U.S.-Canada Sockeye Pact Is Vitally Required

British Columbia fisheries will perpetuate themselves indefinitely if discrimination and conservation are used in the annual catch, George J. Alexander, deputy provincial fisheries commissioner, told the Rotary Club, yesterday, in the Empress Hotel. Duncan MacBride presided.

Mr. Alexander gave an instructive talk on salmon, halibut, pilchard and herring fisheries of the province, together with an explanation of equipment and methods used commercially in landing the silver haul, which is almost half that of the rest of Canada combined.

CONDITIONS IMPROVING

Fisheries of British Columbia, the deputy commissioner indicated, stood fourth in production from natural wealth of the province. The annual catch rose to some $27,000,000 at its peak, and fell, in value, to $12,000,000 in 1933. Steady and consistent recovery had set in this year, he intimated.

Production of more than twenty main varieties and miscellaneous fish products in 1933 had totaled in excess of 300,000,000 pounds. This had engaged the attention of 16,000 persons, with $19,500,000 in invested capital actually in use last year.

Victoria, with 4,500,000 pounds of fish landed this season to date, had an integral part in the trade, Mr. Alexander said.

DESCRIBES LIFE HABITS

The speaker gave an interesting description of the life habits of the chief species of fish in Pacific waters, and told of sea and shore equipment employed in production of the canned or frozen products, which find their way to many countries of the world.

Rich in food calories, and containing vitamin D, calcium, phosphates, and many other necessary ingredients of the human frame, fish should be a staple dish on all tables where health, particularly that of growing children, was considered.

Mr. Alexander concluded to applause. Team managers for the Victoria Rotary Club reported a successful balance as a result of the recent bridge drive, for charitable purposes. Club members were advised of an international Rotary broadcast, from Buenos Aires, at 9 p.m. on November 5. An orchestral programme was much enjoyed.

SCOTCH CONCERT WELL RECEIVED

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Programme of Songs and Dances Proves Delightful

For one and a half hours, 100 persons were delighted with Scottish songs, dances and recitations, when the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their "Gruan" Scots' concert, last night, in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium.

Every presentation met with enthusiastic response from the audience.

Stirring bagpipe tunes by Pipe-Major Donald Cameron opened the interesting programme.

The songs of the evening told many of the legends of Scotland, others were laments, while several were sung in the Gaelic tongue by Mrs. Mary McCoy Jameson, who introduced each song with a brief description of the characters involved.

Miss Adeline Grant showed fine grace in her dances, and responded with encores.

In humorous recitations, James Walker was received with much laughter.

Fred Wright and Miss Isabelle Crawford, soloists, delighted the gathering with their songs, while a quartette, which included Miss Crawford, Mrs. H. Fraser, William Draper and A. W. Trevel, drew much applause.

Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Fred Wright, Jesse Longfield and Pipe-Major Cameron.

NUMERICAL LIST IS ISSUED HERE

Diggon-Hibben Telephone Directory for 1934-35 Valuable to Business Men

The Diggon-Hibben numerical telephone list for 1934-35 has just been issued. This useful companion to the official telephone directory contains a complete list of telephone subscribers in Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich and Sidney, with their listings arranged in numerical order. Each exchange occupies a separate section. With the numerical telephone list it is a simple matter to ascertain the name of a subscriber whose number only is known.

Compilation and revision of the list, a task of considerable magnitude, showed that more than four thousand changes, representing new subscribers, changes of name, and deletions, had to be made.

The Diggon-Hibben numerical telephone list will be found to be of a great convenience to business and professional men and others who are frequently called upon to answer telephone calls left for them in their absence.

COURT WILL NOT VISIT LAUNDRY

Doubt Exists Whether Supreme Court Case Here Will Be Concluded Before Monday

The case of John Dumas vs. New Method Laundry was still in progress with a considerable number of witnesses still to be heard, when court adjourned last evening. Mr. Justice Denis Murphy is presiding. It is doubtful whether the hearing will conclude before Monday. The suggestion that the court visit the laundry was turned down by His Lordship as not in order.

The cross-examination of Thomas Anderson was continued yesterday morning by counsel for the plaintiff. Witness said that all the noise he could detect was a dull humming that would not disturb anyone.

T. Smith, the engineer in charge at the plant of the laundry, described all the improvements that had been made to the plant and the effects that these had on the situation complained of.

Another witness was Duncan MacBride, of the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company, who gave expert evidence as to the working of the equipment of the laundry. He had made an inspection with other engineers and did not think there could be anything to complain of. He said that there was a low hum, but did not think that it would affect a person's nerves.

A game similar to checkers was played by the Egyptians as early as 1600 B.C. and a form of it was popular in ancient Greece.

Another Sensation!

Rogers and Majestic "Mystery-Tube" Radios

"6H7S" The New Rogers "Mystery Tube", has again Revolutionized Radio Values by making it possible to produce these Radios giving World-wide Reception At The Lowest Price In Canada!

MAJESTIC MODEL 2422

EVERYONE is talking "short-wave" radio—everyone wants a set that will tune in foreign, as well as domestic programs. Every manufacturer has sets of this type. Most of those that perform well have six or more tubes, and sell for over $100 in console models. Now comes Rogers with this marvel Mystery Tube (6H7S) that makes it possible to produce these beautiful console cabinet models in the new 1935 Majestic and Rogers Radios that actually give seven tube performance for only $79.95!—and the same sets in compact mantel models for only $57.95! It's almost a miracle—certainly a sensation. And do they "perk"? Well, any Rogers or Majestic dealer will gladly prove the performance for you. Remember this new tube is exclusively Canadian, and found only in Rogers and Majestic short-wave radios.

Ten years ago Rogers startled the world with the first successful A/C tube that made electric radio possible. It was two years later before any other radio company anywhere could produce electric sets. Three years ago Rogers introduced the first full-spray-shielded tube that made it possible to discard the metal "shielding-cans" and greatly improved reception. Last year Rogers announced the now famous 89RS tube that made it possible to produce the three tube radio that tuned in stations all across the continent. Now comes the "6H7S"—another exclusive invention of the Rogers tube laboratories that again puts Rogers and Majestic radios ahead in the short-wave field.

Five Lose Lives When Pipe Tested

GERM WARFARE IS DESCRIBED

Dr. D. C. B. Duff Gives Interesting Lecture at Victoria College

A most instructive and intensely interesting discourse on "The Methods of Attack on Infectious Diseases," was given by Dr. D. C. B. Duff, of the University of British Columbia, at last night's meeting of the Victoria University Extension Association, in the Victoria College lecture room.

Dr. Duff hurriedly sketched the earliest theories of man on the matter of infectious diseases. First, he said, there was the Duetistic theory, which attributed plagues to the hand of God as a punishment meted out for some great sin committed. Closely related to this was the demoniac theory, which contended that diseases were evil spirits that must be driven from the body by the incantations of one possessed of the particular qualities for doing this work.

Thus it could readily be seen that mankind, even in the earliest days, was concerned with the cause and prevention of disease. Two other theories were mentioned in the sketching of the progress of medical approach toward the prevention of disease. The theory of four-air causing disease next took hold, and this was followed by the theory that filth was the cause of disease.

Dr. Duff explained that it was not filth that caused disease, but bacteria, or agencies of disease that might be found among filth. However, he followed this explanation by saying that disease germs were essentially parasites and thrived purely on living organisms. It was true, he declared, that they could live outside a living organism for some time. But they could not multiply, and eventually died.

Girl Guides Have Birthday Party

Girl Guides of the Lady Douglas Company celebrated the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the company with a fancy dress Halloween birthday party, at their headquarters, at which they entertained as guests of honor Miss Hilda Leighton, Mrs. R. B. McKicking, Miss McMullin, and Miss Franks. A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation of a certificate to Miss Ryan, captain, on behalf of the company, of a Cherry etching, to Miss Leighton, as a mark of appreciation for all she has done for the company, which was organized by her, and of which she was the first captain.

A brief address was given by Mrs. McKicking, who represented the Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.G.E. The speaker touched on the history of "guiding" in Victoria, and paid tribute to Miss Leighton for the active part she had taken in establishing the movement, over twenty-one years ago. In reply, Miss Leighton spoke of the great interest shown by the Lady Douglas Chapter, which had "adopted" the company and generously encouraged the work in every way.

Some very quaint and original costumes were worn, and the customary Halloween witches, bats and ghosts were to be seen. After the march past, games were played, and later a buffet supper was served. The table was decorated in the Halloween motif, and centered with a large birthday cake, with nineteen candles, made and decorated by Miss Gibbs, lieutenant. Miss Leighton was accorded the honor of cutting the cake and "wishing" for the company.

S. C. Harrison Wins Contest At Food Show

First prize of $50 was awarded to S. C. Harrison, 805 Cormorant Street, as Wednesday's winner of the "Halloween Bill" bicycle-riding contest, now being held at the Hudson's Bay Company food show. The speedometer when unsealed, Wednesday, showed that eighty-four and four-tenths miles had been covered between 9 a.m. Tuesday and 1 o'clock Wednesday, allowing for a rest period between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday. Mr. Harrison's estimate was eighty-four and three-quarter miles.

G. F. Hawthorn, 147 Ontario Street; Mrs. F. V. Rush, Royal Oak and B. J. Smith, 902 Cook Street, tied for second and third place. The prizes, therefore, will be divided accordingly.

The food show, which is attracting considerable attention, will close tomorrow evening.

Tea Will Commemorate Birthday of Province

Final arrangements were made at the meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter on Thursday for the public tea, to be held in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel on Monday, November 19, to commemorate the seventy-sixth anniversary of the birthday of British Columbia. The members were gratified to hear that Dr. W. Kaye Lamb, the provincial librarian and archivist, has consented to give an address during the afternoon, and he has selected "Here and There in the Archives," as the title and subject of his discourse.

A special feature of the programme is to be a display of costumes of a historic and national character, many of which are linked with the history of seventy-six years ago on this island. Members of the chapter are asked to get as many of their friends as possible to appear in costume, and the regent, Mrs. Colin Cummins, will be glad to supply the necessary information in regard to time and place.

The programme will commence at 3:15 p.m. with the parade, which will be repeated after tea for the benefit of late comers.

The honorable regent, Mrs. R. B. McKicking, with Miss McMullin and the regent will form the reception committee, Mrs. A. S. Christie being in charge of the parade.

REPORTS READ

The delegate to the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, Miss Josephine Crease, gave an interesting report of the proceedings. The Echoes secretary, Mrs. Rogers, brought in a report of the Municipal Chapter meeting, and a contribution of $50.00 toward the purchase of a poppy wreath for the memorial on Armistice Day, was voted. Two members volunteered to assist in the poppy sale on November 19.

Members were asked to attend the lecture being convened by the Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, next week, also the luncheon, on November 15, for the Local Council of Women. A satisfactory report of the moving pictures, shown for the chapters' benefit by Mr. Frank Pullen, of Oakville, Ontario, was presented. Mrs. A. M. Boyd emphasizing the educational value of the pictures and accompanying address.

Mrs. R. B. McKicking and Miss McMullin attended the nineteenth birthday party of the Lady Douglas Troop of Girl Guides, on October 26.

Clubs-Societies

Olympia Club
Halloween was celebrated in the parlor of the Oak Bay United Church by the Olympia Club, on Tuesday evening. The decorators had spared neither time nor energy in the completion of their task in beautifying the parlor for the event, black and orange being the color scheme used throughout. The evening's entertainment consisted of the usual Halloween games and contests. Later in the evening the "Ghost Walk" was conducted by Walter Housley. A sing-song was held under the leadership of Rev. J. H. Warr. The success of the evening was due to the untiring efforts of the social conveners, Miss Isabelle Barnes and Mr. Jack Croft, who were assisted by Miss Wilena Grahame and Mr. Max Farnon. Next week's session will not be held, as the club has accepted an invitation by Rev. J. H. A. Warr to attend the opening meeting of the Religious Educational Council's training school.

Oak Bay United W.A.
The Women's Auxiliary of the Oak Bay United Church met yesterday to arrange for the bazaar to be held on Friday, November 9. Mrs. A. J. Gerry, the president, conducted the business meeting. At the meeting of the W.A. to the Jubilee Hospital on Wednesday afternoon, the convener of the hospital ball committee, Mrs. Hermann Robertson, expressed the thanks of the committee to all those who had in any way assisted in making the ball such a success, and she made special reference to those who gave donations and to the shops for most helpful display advertisements.

Ministering Circle
The meeting of the Ministering Circle, King's Daughters, has been postponed until Friday, November 9.

Caravan Trip Described by Miss Hasell

Miss Eva Hasell, in her interesting address at the Memorial Hall, last evening, on the subject of the work of the Sunday School-by-Post, conducted by the Church of England in Canada, paid a feeling tribute to the courage, generosity, and warm-hearted hospitality of the settlers in the isolated sections of the Peace River district and especially in the Athabasca district in Northern Alberta.

Drought, floods, crop failures, and a trying climate had to be contended with by the settlers in these parts and Miss Hasell felt it a real privilege to have been able to know such characters as are to be found there.

COLORED SLIDES

Her talk, illustrated by particularly fine colored lantern slides, gave to her hearers a real insight into the work, and personal anecdotes, photographs of the families which she and Miss Sayle visited added much to the interest of the vivid word picture. During the past Summer Miss Hasell and Miss Sayle traveled over 3,000 miles in the caravan, walked 500 miles and covered many miles of rough country in carts of various descriptions, some of the rudest kind. The Sunday School-by-Post now has between 5,000 and 6,000 children on its list, Miss Hasell said, and in many cases this was the only possible means of any kind of religious instruction which the children can receive.

The diocese of Athabasca was in particularly dire financial straits, Miss Hasell declared, and commented on the loyalty of the clergy, who are arming on their work "in faith" that eventually some stipend will be forthcoming.

CLOTHING NEEDED

The clothing which has been sent from Victoria to the families in the north country and in the drought areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan was a real boon and the speaker hoped that continuous effort would be made to keep up the work. Warm clothing was specially needed, Miss Hasell stated.

Miss Sayle, who took charge of the showing of the slides, spoke briefly at the conclusion of Miss Hasell's address and made particular reference to the Little Smoky Settlement, where so many donations from Victoria have been sent. Many of the families in this area, though only two or three miles apart, have been unable to see each other for months at a time on account of the almost impassable roads.

Sincere hope that more graduates from St. Christopher's College, Victoria, would volunteer for the work of the Sunday School-by-Post, was expressed by Miss Hasell.

Rev. Canon Nunns acted as chairman and thanked Miss Hasell for her address.

Lead the jack of spades. With three spades to the king against you, a finesse is the best chance. If East holds the king the contract is lost. If West holds the three outstanding spades, the lead of the jack and finessing if not covered is the method to adopt, to avoid losing a trick.

At the close of the social, lunch was served in the Sunday schoolroom of the church.

STILL FRETTING AT SUSPENSION

Stanford and California University Students Critical of Authorities

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1 (AP).—Collegians at Stanford and California Universities fumed today against the suspension of five students at the University of California at Los Angeles for alleged radical activities.

Three hundred of the 12,000 enrolled at the University of California voted in favor of a one-hour protest strike unless the five are reinstated. Some Stanfordites circulated a protest petition and The Stanford Daily printed a fervent editorial berating the U.C.L.A. faculty's attitude.

Provost Ernest C. Moore, of U.C.L.A., defended his suspensions with the assertion that his campus was "a hotbed of Communism," and added that it was a question "whether the constituted authorities should run the university or whether we should turn it over to the control of an unorganized group of Communists."

The mass meeting at Berkeley

hooted his stand as against the right of student self-government. They threatened to smash the camera of a photographer who said he had been hired by the university buildings and grounds department to take pictures of the gathering.

The photographer was released undisturbed after cooler heads argued against violence.

The Daily Californian, Berkeley campus publication, questioned whether "any five students in any university could have power and influence to use their offices to destroy the university by handing it over to the Communists."

"If that condition actually prevails at U.C.L.A.—well, it must be an awfully queer campus," it said.

QUEBEC YOUTH WINS ACQUITTAL ON CHARGE OF MURDERING COUSIN

QUEBEC, Nov. 1 (CP).—A jury here last night acquitted Nelson Phillips, nineteen, of the murder of his fifteen-year-old cousin, Maude Asch, for which he was convicted and sentenced to death at his first trial before Chief Justice R. A. Greenfield, Montreal.

The girl disappeared with her cousin, Marguerite Asch, nineteen, from Gaspé, Que., August 31, 1933.

Jurors deliberated two hours following the charge of Mr. Justice Noel Billeau. Phillips was set free after the verdict.

No defence was offered by accused's counsel.

"Don't stand there loafing," said the professor, to three of his students who were talking in a corner.

"We're not loafing," replied one of them. "There's only three of us, and it takes eleven to make a loaf."

On the Screen

Capitol—George Robey in "Chu Chin Chow."

Columbia—"College Coach," starring Dick Powell.

Dominion—Mae West in "Belle of the Nineties."

Playhouse—"The Cat and the Fiddle," starring Ramon Novarro.

Mae West essays the role of the country's most sensational burlesque queen of the period.

Leo McCarey directed the picture from an original story and screen play written by Mae West, herself. In the course of the story, Miss West sings several songs written for her by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnson. Dozens of new gowns were designed for this role, all featuring the prevailing fashion of the period, and the settings and incidents of the story are authentically reproduced.

Lee Tracy is also seen on the same bill in "You Belong to Me."

PLAYHOUSE—"The Cat and the Fiddle," the noted musical production, is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Ramon Novarro and Jeanette MacDonald are seen in the leading roles. As an added feature the management is showing Mary Brian in "Numbers of Death," an unusual story from the pen of E. Phillips Oppenheim.

COLUMBIA Pat O'Brien, who has the same bill in "You Belong to Me," is now showing at the Columbia Theatre, was quite at home on the gridiron in the games filmed at the Pasadena Rose Bowl. He was once the star half back at Marquette University and won considerable fame when he crossed Notre Dame's goal for a touchdown in the year when they were champions of the middle West.

EMPIRE With a finesse in every

THEATRE detail, the dynamic play, "White Cargo," opened its Victoria engagement at the Empire Theatre last night and will show again this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

"White Cargo," which is not by any means devoid of laughs, tells a story of life on Africa's West coast, depicting what the monotonous existence under the tropical sun does to men, mentally and physically, destroying their interest in life.

ROMANTIC TEAM ARE SEEN IN NEW STORY

The same romantic team which won ovations in "Smilin' Through"—Norma Shearer and Fredric March—are together in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which opens at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

The poetic love story of the new film is reminiscent of "Smilin' Through," the star's greatest hit, in its main theme and sentimental appeal.

With old-fashionedness the vogue in today's films, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" is in the centre of fashion.

Set in 1845, the poetic story of the love of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning is unfolded against a beautiful, mellowed drop of gentler times and dressed in the curls and crinolines which go arm in arm with romance.

"HAY FEVER" WILL BE PRESENTED MONDAY

Victoria Little Theatre has chosen with much care the cast to portray the various parts in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," which will be presented, on Monday evening, at the Shrine Auditorium.

The story is woven around the Bliss family—mother, father and two children, a boy and girl. Each makes a desperate attempt at being a decided individual and "expressing" himself or herself. Judith Bliss, the mother, has been an actress, and to her "all the world's a stage." She can make a dramatic scene from practically nothing, and this exaggerated histrionic ability of Judith's makes the play go with a swing. Lucy Wharton will play the part of Judith. David Bliss, the father, is portrayed by H. P. Hewitt. Sorel and Simon Bliss, played by Margery Benson and Brian Green, complete the family.

The box office is now open at Fletcher Bros., and associate members are reminded that tickets must be exchanged for seats. The curtain is at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

SAANICH COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE MANNER OF POLICE SELECTION

Allegation contained in a letter written to the Saanich Council by Henry S. Rounding, 240 Tominie Avenue, to the effect that he had been told who would be the successful applicant for a position on the municipal police force, will be investigated by the council, it was decided last night.

Mr. Rounding, who, it was asserted, was an unsuccessful candidate for the position, made bitter complaint, suggesting that the selection of the applicant was made before the meeting of the commission was convened. This was irregular.

Reeve William Crouch expressed indignation at the suggestions contained in the letter, and recommended an inquiry into the whole of the circumstances surrounding the appointment. To this the council agreed.

"After this dance let's go outside and drink in the wonderful fresh air!"

"What's wrong with drinking in here?"

SILVER SLIPPERS

CHAPTER XXIII

Joan had said nothing about Giles Armiger. There was, really, she told herself, nothing to say. As she unpacked her belongings in the late afternoon she came across the little book he had given her, the history of Granithead. That had been the real beginning of their friendship—and now it was ended. Because he had failed. Yet had he failed? There had been no word of his which a married man might not have said to her. And he had been wise and helpful, setting himself to understand her problems. She felt, however, that she did not want to see him—things would be different with his wife to think of.

When she went to bed that night, the fog had cleared and the stars were bright. Old Muffet sat on the sill and looked at the stars. Joan was glad of the companionship of the little cat. "Lovely thing," she whispered in the dark, and then suddenly she began to cry. She was not sure what she was crying about—whether it was the loss of her lover or the loss of her friend, or the loss of the life which had been hers when she had lived with Adelaide.

She got out of bed, and on her knees, flung her arms across the covert, her head bowed on them. She had no prayer on her lips, but there was one in her heart. "Make me brave, make me brave. Don't let me give up for anybody the best that is in me."

Back at Granithead was the gay room with its silken luxury, there were the pearls which had slipped like a white snake down Adelaide's black gown. . . . there was the big car, and Farley and all the rest of it. . . . there was Drew.

When at last she threw herself on the bed, she sank into deep slumber. She was like a shipwrecked sailor, glad of any haven after the storms.

The next morning she wrote a letter to Mrs. Delaford and one to Drew. There was an appeal in both of them. "I may seem foolish, Aunt Adelaide, but I had to do it. And I really love you and miss you. Yet if I should go back, you would think it was because I wanted what you can give me. You can see that, can't you?"

"To draw the course, what heart. My darling, I know you blame me, but it was the only way. I shall wait for you here. And surely you will come—everything speaks of you and of our first days together."

A week passed and there was no answer. Another week, Joan grew restless. She wandered over the moor and down to the shore, a grey little wreath in foggy weather. Everywhere she seemed to hear Drew's voice—in the sigh of the winds, the beat of the waves—

"Say that you love me, Joan. . . . But it has been only two weeks."

"What has time to do—with you and me?"

"My dear, my arms have been empty. You can't know what having you means to me."

The bond between them grew very close. Penelope, wisely, packed the days full. Joan helped with the housecleaning. There was old linen to mend and new linen to mark, and then to be laid on shelves sweet with little bags of rose leaves, there were things to be hung on the line in the fragrant air, lovely quilts and hand-woven blankets, there were dishes to be taken down from the three-cornered cupboards, and washed and put back again. "How many years I have done all this. But then that's life, doing things over and over again."

The evenings were the worst. Not the early part of them in front of the great fire in the living-room with the kittens playing mad games with each other and old Muffet watching. Joan usually read aloud at this time, but about nine o'clock Penelope would grow sleepy. "If I go to bed what will you do with yourself, Joan?"

"Go to bed, too," Joan would say, with false cheerfulness. "I'll get a book."

Penelope had a library which she had inherited from her sea captain grandfather. He had had a nice literary taste, but the value put upon his books in later years by collectors would have seemed to him incredible. He had bought first editions not because everybody else was doing it, but because when he liked a poet or novelist he had been eager to read at once what he had said. Thus it happened that in the dark, high bookcases were treasures over which Joan gloated. There were "Great Expectations," for example, three volumes in the original purple cloth. "I wonder," she said to Penelope, "if you know how much you could get for this?" "I don't want to sell," said Penelope shortly.

"There's a bookseller in Granithead," Joan said, "who would be simply mad about these. His name is Giles Armiger."

It was the first time she had spoken to Penelope of Giles. But now she told of the two shops and of Scripps and the lame gull. "It is really like something out of a story," she said, and stopped there.

But as she read the old books, she thought more and more of Giles. He had seemed absorbed in his shop. Was he as absorbed in his wife? And was he happy? Perhaps he wasn't and had found, in his collecting, an engrossing occupation which eased his heart.

If only she, too, might find some interest as engrossing and which might release her from her sense of obligation to Penelope. And it was this in mind that she said one morning to Mrs. Sears, "You're a dear and a darling. But I must get something to do. I can't be a burden."

"You're not a burden."

"I mustn't accept—everything. And I should like work."

"What could you do?"

"Once upon a time I taught school. I could do it again."

"There's only one school near here, and the woman who has it killed the money."

"Perhaps I could go away and find a place."

"Are you so tired of me?"

"Then, when Joan had ceased to hope, came a letter from Adelaide. 'I am sure that by this time you have repented your precipitation. I sail for France late in October. The Hallams go with me. I think you have treated Drew very badly. If you ask him to forgive you he will take you back and I will overlook what has happened. You cannot expect him to do more than this. He and I talked it over. If, however, you persist in having your own way I am sending a cheque which will tide you over until you can support yourself. You cannot expect Mrs. Sears to provide for you forever.'

When Joan finished reading the letter, she sat for a long time staring at it. Then she left the house and went into the woods.

September had come and the trees were gorgeous in their red and gold. There was, too, the rich green of the pines, and between the black trunks a vista of the sea, darkening to deep blue under the clear, cool sky.

Joan treading with light feet on brittle leaves and brown needles, came to the place where she had danced with Drew. Here—in the moonlight—in her silver slippers,

Here he had said, "I want you beautiful always . . . for me . . . for my kisses."

Oh, how much had he meant of it? He, who had let her aunt write. Who had talked it over in cold blood and had been sure of Adelaide's forgiveness before he dared offer his own? She had only to say, "I'm sorry," and he would be here beside her, and they would ride down to the sea and things would be as they had been before.

But would they ever be as they had been before? If she gave in, would her doubts be stilled? Might she not go back to find more heart-aches, more humiliations?

She sat down on a fallen log and considered it. She was torn by her indecisions. She wanted him—she wanted Drew. Oh, why should she care for anything except to see him?

"THE CHILD"

By REGINALD H. WIGGINS, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

When we speak of the health or well-being of the child our thoughts immediately centre on his physical health alone—his teeth, tonsils and tummy.

Too frequently do we regard the child as an animated nuisance and as having an insatiable appetite, the first disturbing our ease and tranquility ("drat the child," says father, when his pipe has vanished), the latter sorely depleting the family larder (however we have got round the corner and are able to say, "wasn't the depression terrible?").

This trinity must have an environment, created by the parents, which will allow full, free and fair development of the whole child so that he may become a wholesome, capable, well-integrated personality—a future citizen who will help to make this world a happier, freer, less fearful place in which to live.

To recognize and give due regard to the spiritual in a child's life is to aid him to acquire a right basis of gentlemanly morals, an upright character and a considerate and thoughtful personality.

We seem prone to forget that the child has a spirit, a mind and a body. The spirit guides, the mind controls, and the body is merely the instrument of both.

Producer and Public Intended to Benefit From Marketing Act

Hon. K. C. Macdonald, Minister of Agriculture, Explains Effect of New Legislation to Women's Institutes' Conference in Session

THE Marketing Act, devised with a view "to giving the producer control over his product; if fairly and equitably administered, capable of assisting not only the producer but all the legitimate cogs of industry within the ambit of trade and the consuming public," was explained to the South Vancouver Island Women's Institute Conference, yesterday afternoon, by Hon. K. C. Macdonald, Minister of Agriculture.

"Personally, I clearly foresee the possibilities of this legislation being operated both successfully and fairly," said the minister, who pointed to the Federal Marketing Act, passed at Ottawa last session, as the "parent" of the British Columbia legislation, which was supposed to implement the former by establishing control over profits. In the matters of pooling, levying, and licensing, Ottawa would take control, and in this connection should be given all the powers vested in her under the act; after which the Province should bring into operation the conditions regulating provincial trade. The creation of these conditions, it was stated, had put "new light in the producers' hearts, and inspired a great deal of hope of redress."

MILK A PROBLEM

One of the most difficult problems was in connection with the handling of milk, but those responsible for the administration of the Marketing Act were hopeful that sanity would prevail and that control would be established that would be fair and equitable to producer, middleman, and consumer alike. For the vast majority of the citizens it was sound legislation, in the speaker's opinion, and an appeal was made to the public to withhold criticism for the time being, remembering that protection and encouragement of agriculture in this country would, in a large degree, spell an awakening in trade generally.

"Women as the principal spenders and principal economists have a very heavy responsibility in helping us to work out this new legislation," Dr. Macdonald concluded.

MANY ACTIVITIES

The reports of conveners of the various committees indicated a great diversity of activities among the affiliated institutes represented at the conference. Mrs. Wilkinson, Royal Oak, brought in a good report on education and better schools. Twelve institutes had returned questionnaires, and the reports of eleven (including Victoria with sixteen schools) showed thirty-nine schools in this number of localities. Nine institutes reported familiarity with the provisions of the Schools Act; two stated they did not know the provisions. Only four of the eleven had studied the school survey report.

Among the activities conducted by one or other of these institutes in connection with schools were the furnishing of hot lunches, cafeterias in high schools, school libraries in several schools, and assistance in bettering the school playgrounds. All schools seemed to have good sanitary provisions and places for the children to wash their hands. Nearly all institutes in districts which have local agricultural fairs report that classes were open for children in the exhibition list.

In this report attention was called to the fact that there were no women members on school boards in any of these districts. One of the reports suggested that it would be to the advantage of schools of parents would make more effort to get acquainted with the school teachers.

CHILD WELFARE

The public health and child welfare report, brought in by Mrs. King, Sooke, covered the activities of women's institute members in the different localities in connection with attempts to improve conditions in these respects, and reported on the existing conditions in the respective neighborhoods. Suggestions for annual check-up of the children's health, traveling dental clinics, wellbaby clinics, health nurses, and health exhibits had been followed up during the year. Mrs. J. D. Gordon, provincial institutes' president, expressed surprise at the smallness of health equipment in some districts on the Island.

Mrs. F. Kinloch deplored the dearth of answers to the questionnaire on legislation, and suggested that each institute should give a little time to the review of legislation. Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan said that it needed a member of the House to interpret some of these acts, and the institutes, therefore, might get much help by inviting their local members to address them on the subject.

COMMUNITY WELFARE

Assistance to local hospitals, the starting of local libraries, aid to community halls, help for local Boy Scout groups, provision of recreation halls, institution of preschool child welfare clinics, pro-

Mothers Now Solve Problem of Colds With "Control" Plan

Of especial interest to mothers is the new Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds in the home. The Plan is introduced with the new Vicks Va-tro-nol, for nose and throat, based on a new idea for preventing colds—companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of treating colds. In thousands of clinical tests under medical supervision, Vicks Plan has helped to reduce the number, duration and dangers of colds. (Full details of the Plan in each Vicks package.)

vision of cocoa and sugar for the school children, consideration of needy cases, help for bathing beaches, prizes for public schools, the visiting of newcomers and sick people, were among the activities mentioned by Mrs. J. Michael, of Cedar, convener of the community betterment committee.

Mrs. J. Allen, Cobble Hill, convener of home economics, reported that answers to the questionnaire bearing on this subject indicated an interest in cookery and dress-making demonstrations; exhibits of food, wool, comforters, and bottled fruits and vegetables; and the use of pressure cooker and canning outfit. A stir of interest was roused by the announcement that the Cowichan Institute had made fishing flies, samples of their work being on view at Lake Hill Institute last evening.

AGRICULTURE

The agricultural committee, under Mrs. R. Maxwell, Sallapring Island, recommended the organization of boys' and girls' clubs. Only two institutes reported anything in the way of competitions among school children in connection with school gardens, one reporting instruction, and the other stating that the Rotary Club had given practical encouragement. In reply to a question as to whether wayside stalls were being used as a means of raising money, one institute gave an emphatic "No!", adding that there were too many already.

Mrs. K. Sadler, of Esquimalt, brought in the industries committee report. Demonstrations in spinning, weaving and the making up of Vancouver Island wools; manufacture of raffia and basketry articles and paper flowers; the knitting of sweaters and socks; and the making of hats and shoes were among the industries reported by various institutes. Ten institutes had supported the Made-in-British-Columbia campaign; a number of others had joined the Tudor Rose League; and still another had instituted a Crown-in-British-Columbia campaign.

ENCOURAGEMENT RELATIONS
Mrs. T. C. Robson, the president, suggested that contacting other institutes in New Zealand, Ontario, Australia—anywhere—would be an advantage from the standpoint of exchange of ideas. Mrs. J. J. White thought conveners of committees should not try to work single handed, but would derive benefit from pooling of ideas in groups of two or three.

Mrs. J. D. Gordon suggested that conveners should watch the press for information concerning legislation passed during sessions of the House, and recommended a book for cuttings. To be of value, any record of the laws passed for women and children during any session should be up-to-date. It would be well for the legislators, also, if they felt that women all over the country were watching what was happening. Mrs. Robson suggested that adjacent institutes could make it worth while for their Parliamentary member to address them on legislation if they would join forces for a meeting.

FROM OKANAGAN

Mrs. H. McGregor, a guest from the Okanagan district, said that as women spent 85 per cent of the family income, the merchants would gladly address institutes and give them expert information concerning textiles, food products, furnishings and various other matters, demonstrating the respective values of different articles.

At the morning session the principal address was given by J. B. Munro, deputy Minister of Agriculture, who gave a resume of legislation of special interest to women. This included the Female Minimum Wage Act, which had repealed the former Minimum Wage Act for women, dealing with wages. Other legislation dealt with hours of work for women, in which connection the speaker said that most institute members were consistent breakers of such laws, both in the matter of hours of work and wages given.

He touched on the Canadian Farm Loan Act and the Federal Marketing Board, also the Commodity Board established in this province to facilitate the export of

GREETINGS EXTENDED

The conference was opened in the customary manner, with a happy message of greeting to the city from Mayor Leeming to the delegates, and others who extended good wishes were Mrs. C. C. Spofford, president of the Local Council of Women, with which many of the institutes are affiliated; Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, president of the Women's Canadian Club; Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson, provincial president of the I.O.D.E., all of whom paid warm tributes to the fine community work being done by the women's institutes.

Mrs. J. D. Gordon, provincial president, touched on some of the numerous problems that were being worked out through the Women's Institutes or which had still to be solved.

During the afternoon district reports were received from Colwood, Cowichan, Esquimalt, Lake Hill, Laxton and Happy Valley, Oyster Bay, Royal Oak, Ganges, Shawnigan, South Saanich, Sallapring Island, and Victoria and West Saanich.

Weddings

GIBSON-MARSHALL

Rev. A. deB. Owen officiated at the wedding, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, 370 Burnside Road, of Violet May, second daughter of the late Mr. Arthur Oliver Marshall, of Perdue and Saskatchewan, and of Mrs. S. Pace, Victoria, and Mr. Thomas Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gibson, Little Eldon Place. Chrysanthemums were charmingly arranged throughout the house for the occasion, and during the service the bride and groom stood beneath an archway decked with silver flowers. As the bride entered the room on the arm of her stepfather, who gave her away, Mrs. Ernest Tuson played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," and later, as the register was being signed, "O Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. Wardman. The bride wore a frock of Olympic blue flat crepe trimmed with silver, and a small blue and silver hat and veil, and carried a bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Tuson, as matron of honor, who wore a frock of geranium red crepe and a smart black hat, and carried a bouquet of red and white carnations, and by five-year-old June Tuson, a dainty flower girl in a ribboned frock of green georgette. Her tiny bouquet was of rosebuds. The best man was Mr. James Davidson. The guests, including relatives and intimate friends, were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Pace, the latter wearing a becoming gown of black and silver and a black hat, and a corsage bouquet of pink and white carnations, and they were assisted by the groom's parents, Mrs. Gibson wearing a blue crepe dress, trimmed with a large white silk and velvet flower and a blue hat. A buffet luncheon was served later from a table prettily arranged with chrysanthemums, which was centred with the wedding cake set on folds of white tulle. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will make their home in the Scott Apartments.

BULLEN-SPARK

At the home of the bride's father, 215 Superior Street, Rev. James Hood officiated at the wedding of Elizabeth Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. John Spark, and of the late Mrs. Spark, and Mr. Robert W. Bullen, youngest son of Mrs. F. Bullen, Victoria, and of Mr. Bullen, Nanaimo, which took place last evening at 9 o'clock. Autumn flowers in great variety were used in decoration of the house, and during the ceremony the bride and groom stood beneath a white arch and bell. Mr. Spark gave his daughter in marriage, and she looked very pretty in a most becoming frock of midnight blue French transparent velvet, made form-fitting and finished with cape sleeves lined with white satin. She also wore matching slippers, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and white carnations. Miss Louise Fry was her only bridesmaid, who wore an ankle-length, form-fitting frock of red silk georgette, made with a cowl neckline, and sleeves inset with ecru lace. She also wore matching slippers and held a bouquet of pale pink carnations and mauve chrysanthemums. Mr. Albert Bailey was best man. Supper was served after the ceremony from a table arranged with white streamers and chrysanthemums, and centred with the two-tiered cake. The guests were welcomed by Mr. Spark, assisted by the groom's mother in a gown of beige silk crepe trimmed with cream satin, and by the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. H. Harvey, in a black transparent velvet robe with a Maltese lace collar.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullen left at midnight for Vancouver and Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in a black and white wool sport's dress with matching accessories, and on their return will make their home at 1152 Yates Street. Among the many beautiful gifts received were a Chesterfield table and an electric iron from the bride's former associates in the catering department of the British Columbia Coast Steamships Company.

BOWMAN-HARRISON

A wedding of much interest in Saanich took place in Fairbanks, Alaska, recently, when Rev. Mr. Keppenbrock united in marriage a native daughter of Saanich, Edith Mabel, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison, one of oldest pioneers of Saanich, to Mr. Robert Allan Bowman, of Fairbanks, Alaska, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bowman, of Los Angeles. The bride was attired in a sleeveless gown of white silk net, white georgette and white satin slippers. Her bouquet of white and cream roses completed the charming bridal outfit. She was attended by Miss Elsie Richards, who wore a frock of yellow organdie, with cream hat to match, and carried a bouquet of cream and gold marigolds. The groom was supported by Mr. Carl Weller. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. Mrs. C. McCowan presided at the organ. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. J. McDonald. The wedding supper was served at a daintily-appointed table, centred with a beautiful wedding cake, sent from Victoria by the bride's sister, Mrs. Alfred Nelson. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman left later for a trip to the Circle Hot Springs. The wedding gifts were many and beautiful, as the couple are well known in the city. The bride, a graduate nurse, has been practicing for several years in Seattle. The bridegroom is a mining engineer. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman will make their home in Fairbanks.

Hallowe'en Party Draws Big Crowd

Hallowe'en was celebrated at the Lake Hill Community Centre, on Wednesday evening, with a special gingham and overall old-time dance, which drew about 250 guests. The hall was decorated with witches, goblins, lighted pumpkins, corn stalks, etc., and Hallowe'en streamers of orange and black. The lighting arrangements were in the capable hands of George Russell, and many favorable comments were heard on the effectiveness of the multi-colored flood and spotlights. "Pop and Ezra" from Pumpkin Centre, with E. Prentiss as "Pop" and S. McKenzie as "Ezra," both in realistic make-up, brought roars of merriment from the crowd, while the balloon-blowing contest for ladies, and the novelty contest for men were much enjoyed. The winner of the ladies' balloon-blowing contest was Audrey Waring, and the men's contest was won by George Dodsworth, L. Dougan, G. Duncan, Duncan, of Sooke. Contest winners were: Ladies, Miss F. Bond, E. Amys and Florence Patterson, and for the gentlemen, E. Holt, W. Robinson and A. H. Gaiger.

When Captain Scott was born

That intrepid explorer, Captain Scott, whose memory is revered throughout the Empire, was born in 1868.

The EMU Company was founded in the same year and has made history in another direction. It was a pioneer of Australian Wines and is to-day the largest exporter of wines from Australia.

EMU 444 and EMU 999—White and Tawny Port—are two of the Company's most famous wines. Produced on our own vineyards at Morphet Vale (South Australia); made under hygienic conditions and aged in-the-wood, they are Australia's choicest Ports. Because of their Empire origin, they receive a tariff preference when entering Canada, which explains why they cost much less than Foreign Port of equal quality.

CHEAP SOAP-CHIPS COSTLY

SKIMPY SUDS MAKE HARD RUBBING—FREE ALKALIES FADE COLORS AND "EAT CLOTH"—CLOTHES RUINED QUICKLY!

What looks like "a lot of soap for the money" while it is puffed up dry, may prove a great disappointment when you get it in your tub. You cannot expect from cheap soap-chips the rich, lasting suds you get from a fine, rich soap like Chipso. Poor, watery suds flatten out. They won't rub the dirt. You have to rub, rub, RUB. And rubbing weakens clothes!

Money lost on clothes

Then there's the danger of free alkali in cheap, crudely made soap-chips—of artificial bleaches and strong water-softeners used in place of genuine soapiness. Do you dare risk clothes which cost you good money in such "pinch-penny" soaps? You know how harsh soaps roughen your hands when you use them for dish-washing. Think what they do to your clothes on washday! Isn't it cheaper to buy good soap?

"I bought a bad bargain," says Mrs. H. J. Carr

"I bought cheap chips because I thought I was getting a lot of soap," says Mrs. Carr. "But I had to use twice as much soap and I had to rub twice as hard! The lace of my best slip went to pieces after three washings. My regular white wash started to turn gray. Where I tried to save pennies on cheap chips, I lost dollars on clothes! I went back to Chipso—to thick, rich SUDS that are SAFE."

Only soap-filled suds rinse easily

Skimp suds that are too thin to pick up the dirt leave a mean, curdy scum to be rinsed out of your clothes. Hard work! Don't do it. Use Chipso. Chipso is a flaked soap that is fine and rich. Cheap soap-chips try to look like Chipso. Chipso is real soap... its creamy thick suds are soap-filled. They soak out dirt in less than 15 minutes... they rinse out in a flash. And they are safe, even for your nicest things—hard only on dirt!

"SNOWY WHITE CLOTHES... COLORS STAY BRIGHT!"

Mrs. W. J. Robinson says, "Chipso suds are simply wonderful. I never have to soak my white clothes more than 15 minutes to have them come out as white as snow, without any hard hand-rubbing. Yet these lovely, rich suds are so safe as water for all my very nicest things."

FRUIT MEN ASK BETTER RATES

Differential Favoring Mainland Shippers Protested Before Railway Board

The Island fruit growers want a reduction in the differential rate on berry and other small fruit shipments made to the Prairies over the railway lines as compared with the rate paid from Mainland points. The differential against Vancouver Island shippers is twenty-five cents a hundred pounds when the shipments are made by express, but only three and a half cents per hundred when made by freight. In both cases, the fruit is pre-cooled and the cars iced.

The request of the Island growers is that the rate be reduced so that the differential as far as express shipments are concerned be only seven cents instead of twenty-five cents.

The matter was placed before the Board of Railway Commissioners when a sitting was held in the Courthouse here yesterday with that board composed of F. N. Garneau, deputy chief commissioner; Hon. E. C. Morris, and George A. Stone. There appeared on behalf of the Small Fruit Growers' Association of Vancouver Island, Captain E. L. Lively, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association; H. C. Oldfield, president of the same body; W. N. Kersey, president of the Vancouver Island Co-operative Fruit Exchange; W. McNally, director of that body, and W. H. Carr, manager of the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association.

MORE CANNING DONE
Captain Lively, addressing the board, pointed out that while, at late years with the cut in the returns to be derived from the shipment of small fruits, the trade had been correspondingly reduced and the growers were finding it more profitable to have the fruit canned. They wanted to be in shape to take advantage of the Prairie trade again when the return of better conditions occurs.

He declared that the handling of the cars from the point of loading in Victoria until they reached the Mainland was by the same trains and barges whether the shipments were by freight or by express. There could not be much difference in the cost to the growers in the freight shipments were made in ice cars like the express shipments, but the fact that the freight moved less quickly from Vancouver than the express shipments, made it impracticable to ship beyond Calgary and Edmonton by freight.

All other charges, he pointed out, in connection with the handling of the fruit, were now down except the railway charges.

COMPETING WITH ORIENTALS
Captain Lively referred to the fact that the growers on Vancouver Island were all Canadian citizens whereas they were competing with Oriental growers on the Mainland. The higher standard of living of the Canadian citizen had to be considered. Moreover, he pointed out that the responsibility for securing anti-dumping and similar legislation rested entirely upon the Canadian growers.

Mr. Kersey supported the representations of Captain Lively and contended that the Island growers could not ship under present conditions. In consequence, they had to fall back on canning the fruit. Captain Lively called the attention of the board to the hearing which was to be given in Vancouver on Monday when a general reduction would be asked with regard to shipments made of fruit from the Pacific Coast. He asked that H. C. Oldfield be permitted to present the situation from the standpoint of the Island growers which would be supplemented by the Pacific Coast growers in Vancouver.

WANT LOWER RATE
This was granted and Mr. Oldfield made a plea for reduced rates on fruit. Applications had been made in 1933 and again in January, 1934, to the Freight Rates Association in this connection.

The railways had offered special rates for passengers by affording the chance to travel for a cent a mile. The parallel between this and the express rates charged showed, he said, that under conditions prevailing it appeared that there was an income of $400 a car under the express charges, while the passenger cars would show at the reduced rate only $160 a car.

If reduced rates were secured, the speaker felt that considerably more fresh fruit would be shipped.

Members of the board promised to take the representations into consideration.

The sitting lasted less than an hour. F. P. Burpee, registrar of the board, was in attendance, together with John Buskard, stenographer.

WILL SATISFY PRESSING NEED

Immediate Cash Grant to Be Made to Saskatchewan by Dominion

OTTAWA, Nov. 1 (CP).—Summertime financial assistance to meet the most pressing needs will be advanced to the Saskatchewan Government, and a formal communication outlining the terms and extent of a more substantial and permanent form of aid, will be drawn up within a few days, according to the decision of the Cabinet Council communicated to Premier J. G. Gardiner, tonight, by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes.

On two occasions this week Mr. Gardiner went before the Government in council and outlined the relief and deficit needs of his province, which include a loan of $9,400,000 to meet all purposes up to March next. Tonight, Mr. Gardiner said he was quite satisfied that the necessary assistance would be forthcoming. With the assurance that an immediate cash grant would be sent forward at once, the Saskatchewan Premier left tonight for Toronto and will leave that city for Regina, tomorrow night.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett called a special session of the Cabinet late this afternoon for the express purpose of dealing with Saskatchewan's problem after a noon session had also been devoted to that purpose, with Mr. Gardiner present, as well as the general managers of the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada, Jackson Dodds and Morris W. Wilson.

Surrender Marks End of Spanish Revolution

The Spanish uprising has been halted. Fighting desperately, revolting peasants were mowed down like grass by the bloody fire of Government troops, when all over Spain they rose up against and tried to overthrow the newly-created Government. A desperate attempt by ousted Socialists and Communist leaders to regain control of the republic was quelled only after fierce fighting. The short-lived "Catalan Republic" came to an end with the capitulation of Barcelona, chief storm centre of the revolt. In the above layout, defeated rebels, with their hands upraised in submission, are seen in (1) surrendering to the victorious loyalist forces. In (2) it is seen that the loyalists are, taking no chances despite the fact that the uprising is temporarily quelled. They are shown above with a field gun set up in a Barcelona street, in preparation for a possible counter-attack by the rebels, whom they have just driven from the city.

CITY OFFICIALS MAKE INSPECTION

Chief Thomas Healey and Matt Hutchison, City Electrician, Study Traffic Systems

The great detective regarded his young assistant angrily. "Where've you been all these weeks?" he demanded. "Surely you remember, sir?" pleaded the assistant, wearily sinking into a chair. "You sent me down to tackle that case at Beachside." "But that was two months ago," snapped the boss detective. "Yes, sir," agreed the young man gloomily, "but you told me to leave no stone unturned, and—and the crime occurred on a pebbly beach."

The Exciting Hunt for Bobby Coon
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When Happy Jack Squirrel asked the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind to hurry over to the middle of the cornfield and warn Bobby Coon that Farmer Brown's Boy had found his tracks and were looking for him the Merry Little Breezes had rushed away in great excitement. All that Happy Jack could tell them was that Bobby Coon was somewhere in the middle of the cornfield, just where Happy Jack didn't know. They would have to find him themselves. Now the way that the Merry Little Breezes tell the little meadow and forest people that danger is near is by carrying every little sound to the sharp little ears of whoever they are trying to warn, or by carrying the smell of the danger to the keen little nose of the one who is in danger. So now they hurried over to Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy to get the smell of them and then hunt among the brown corn tents for Bobby Coon. There wasn't any sound for them to carry, for Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were not making the least bit of a noise as they followed Bobby Coon's tracks.

Just as soon as the Merry Little Breezes got that man smell they rushed straight ahead with it, but not knowing just where Bobby Coon was they started in the wrong direction. Farmer Brown smiled, for he knew all about the Merry Little Breezes and he knew then just what they were trying to do, so he kept right on following Bobby Coon's tracks. When the Merry Little Breezes failed to find Bobby they rushed back to start again in another direction. This time they started in the same direction that Bobby's tracks pointed, but Farmer Brown was watching out sharp and the instant they started he and his boy went off to one side and began to work toward the middle of the cornfield from that point.

Now such a very faint smell as a man smell is one of the hardest things in the world to carry and the only way in which the Merry Little Breezes can carry it is by working all together and continually passing it along from one to another. Of course, when Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy moved off to one side the nearest Little Breeze lost the smell and couldn't pass it along. So back they all had to come and start over, and this time they went in the wrong direction again, and once more Farmer Brown smiled as he and his boy very, very carefully approached one brown corn tent after another, all the time watching out for Bobby Coon. The Merry Little Breezes grew so excited that they separated and scattered in all directions hunting for Bobby Coon, and then of course they couldn't carry the smell at all.

Happy Jack Squirrel, watching from the fence post where he had first called to the Merry Little Breezes, grew so excited that he couldn't keep still. Who would find Bobby Coon first? He could see Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy getting nearer and nearer to the middle of the cornfield and his heart almost stopped beating as he thought of what might happen to Bobby Coon if they should find him. It was dreadful to sit there and not be able to do anything at all to warn Bobby.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! They'll surely get him," wailed Happy Jack.

Next Story: What Happened to Bobby Coon.

Happy Jack Squirrel, watching from the fence post, grew so excited that he couldn't keep still.

1934-35 Edition Of Les Canadiens To Be Formidable

Newsy Lalonde Has Plenty of Material on Hand for Opening of Hockey Season—Cude Will Be Big Asset—Five Irishmen Included on Squad—Youngsters Available

By WALLACE WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1 (CP).—Long labelled the Flying Frenchmen of the National Hockey League, Montreal Canadiens seem to be turning from Gaelic to Gaelic as the years roll by. Irish hearts have thrived under red, white and blue jerseys throughout the history of the club, but the green of Erin has never faded with the Gaelic tricolor as is now.

Riley, Carson, Portland, McGill and Crutchfield have a true Emerald ring to their names. Wilf Cude is a Welshman and another Gael. The harps and the bagpipes are about equally divided in the 1934-35 edition of Les Canadiens. Newsy Lalonde will lead into the NHL fray this month. After training camp preparation at Saint John, the spirited Canadiens will have some strange faces in the line-up when they answer the call to battle. Trades have removed some familiar figures and trades have brought some new ones. Howie Morenz, speedster centre star for a dozen seasons, has gone to Chicago Black Hawks. His old tricolor sweater with the large "T" on the back will hang unused on a peg in the Canadiens' dressing room, a sentimental gesture by his old club. Sentimental, eh? Well, the Canadiens have been sent to Quebec. Batters, Canadian-American League. Albert "Battleship" Leduc, defence star with Canadiens up till two seasons ago, has been named manager of the Quebec club. Johnny Gagnon has gone to Boston Bruins in a trade. Lanky Lorne Chabot has been sent with Morenz to the Chicago club, and will guard the vacant goal cage. Chuck Gardiner left when he died last Spring.

GEORGE LOTT JOINS PROS

Famous Doubles Tennis Star to Barnstorm With Bill Tilden and Group

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—George Martin Lott, Jr., of Chicago, co-holder of the United States indoor and outdoor doubles championships, and recognized as the world's outstanding doubles tennis player, turned professional today, signing a contract to join a four-month tour, under the sponsorship of Bill O'Brien, sports promoter.

The twenty-eight-year-old Mid-Westerner, who was a member of six United States Davis Cup teams, and was listed in the United States first ten seven times in the past ten years, refused a flat sum of $10,000, offered by O'Brien and his partner, William (Big Bill) Tilden, and affixed his signature to a document specifying a percentage of the gross gate receipts.

In announcing Lott's contract, O'Brien revealed that they actually came to terms four days ago, and public commitment of the fact was held up in the hopes that Lester Rollo Stofen, of Los Angeles, joint holder with Lott of the two United States titles, would also accept a similar contract.

"We expect to announce the personnel of our tour, commencing January, next week, and by that time we hope Stofen will make up his mind," O'Brien said. "In the event that Stofen rejects the offer, we will have to search through the amateur ranks for a suitable doubles partner for Lott."

BERKELEY BELL UNDER ARREST

Widely-Known American Tennis Star Must Answer Charges of Having Revolvers

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (CP).—Berkeley Bell, widely-known United States tennis star, must answer a charge of unlawful possession of arms as the result of the finding of two revolvers in his room in a local hotel.

The weapons were found by two

Marty Burke, defenceman, is also with Chicago.

CUDE IN GOAL

Wilf Cude, plucky little Welsh goaler, was recalled from Detroit Red Wings, to whom Canadiens loaned him last season. Wilf was sensational with the Wings when he replaced John Ross Roach during the season.

From Chicago Black Hawks the Canadiens secured Roger "Broadway" Jenkins, a sturdy body-checking defenceman, who can rush fast. From amateur ranks the Canadiens picked up a pair of husky sharpshooters in Jack McGill and the rugged Nels Crutchfield, scoring aces of McGill University, Canadian and international inter-collegiate champions. Crutchfield plays either centre or wing. Jack McGill is a wingman too.

Big Jerry Carson and Roger Jenkins get the call for starting defencemen in front of Cude. Aurel Joliat, sole surviving member of the old Morens-Gagnon-Joliat front line, will be at his old post ranging the left-hand boards. Pit Lepine, poke-checking centre, will replace Howie Morenz at the pivot position. Speedster Wilford Laroche comes up from the substitute list to replace Johnny Gagnon at right wing.

Sylvio Mantha, the old veteran, and Jack Portland, rapidly-improving youngster, are available for relief duty on defence. Jack Riley, one of last season's best rookies, will centre the second forward line, with Armand Mondou on left wing and the fast-skating "It" George Mantha racing up and down the right side. Paul Raymond will play on the third line with the two college recruits, McGill and Nels Crutchfield. McGill will be at left wing with Crutchfield at centre.

Adelard LaFrance, Sudbury youngster, who turned pro with the Canadiens last season, has been sent to Quebec for seasoning, together with Bob McCully and a few other promising youngsters who tried out at the Saint John training camp for places with the red shirts.

police detectives in a search of Bell's room, yesterday, while investigating a complaint by Stanley Young, of Chicago, former roommate of Bell.

Police said Young complained he had lost $112,500 in a deal with two men he said he met through Bell last summer. Authorities said Bell had no connection with the transaction.

Bell, who was released under $500 bond last night, denied the claims were his and said he did not know to whom they belonged.

ALDOUS CUP AWARDED TO JOE ADDISON

Sportsmanship Trophy is Presented to Crack Runner of "Y" Track Squad

Chosen from a field of twenty-four nominees, Joe Addison, a member of Coach Archie McKinnon's flying "Y" track and field squad, and Victoria's lone representative to the British Empire Games, has been awarded the Aldous Memorial Trophy, which is annually presented to the athlete displaying the best sporting spirit throughout the season, whether it be in victory or defeat.

The winner of this coveted award is decided by a poll restricted to members of the Y.M.C.A. track and field team, thereby giving them full opportunity of studying the qualities and character of the candidates. Coming at this time, the award clinched a successful season for tracks in British Columbia, Eastern Canada, and finally London, where Addison competed as a member of Canada's track and field team at the British Empire Games.

HAD BIG LEAD

Addison led the poll by a wide margin, with Bill Dale and Jim Cousins, Victoria's schoolboy athletes, who journeyed to Hamilton this summer, ranking second and third, respectively. Doug Peden, brother of Torchy Peden, of six-day bicycle racing fame, was fourth, and Henry Rowe, promising young high school sprinter, was placed fifth. All honorable mention.

Presented for the first time in 1923, the trophy was won by "Chuck" Cunningham, of the "Y" squad.

Pacific Meat Fivepin Bowlers Set New Mark

Scatter 1,378 Pins in One Game at Olympic Alleys for City Record—Bill Norris Has Fine Score of 820

Pacific Meat Company fivepin bowling team were in rare form at the Olympic Alleys, last night, when they set a new all-time city record for a single-game team score, by putting together five good individual scores for a team total of 1,378. This beats the former city record of 1,347, held by the Colonist team, by thirty-one pins. Bill Norris, in the lead-off position for the team, showed the way for his team-mates by marking every frame for a total of 351. George Ozard had the second highest score of 299. He marked every frame in his game except the fourth, but made up for this by a perfect fifth strike, knocking down the fifth pin in the ninth frame.

Jack Howell, captain of the team, and one of Victoria's best fivepin bowlers, started with a split in the first frame and failed to mark in the fifth frame. He made up for these two frames, however, with a turkey and two doubles. R. W. MacKenzie and Johnny Norrington scored 222 and 210, respectively. Bill Norris, in addition to his good third game, had two other games of 255 and 214 for a three-game total of 820. The Pacific Meat Company team ranks first in the Senior Fivepin League with seventeen wins to date out of twenty-one games played.

MERALOMAS DEFEAT PRAIRIE SQUAD IN OPENING MATCH, 5-0

Pete Wilson's Touchdown in Third Quarter Is Only Score of Initial Series Battle for Right to Enter Western Final—Niblo Fails to Convert—Winners Show Superiority

VANCOUVER, Nov. 1 (CP).—Vancouver Meralomas defeated University of Alberta's Golden Bears, 5-0, in the first game of a two-game total point series for the right to enter the Western Canada final here, tonight. Pete Wilson, shifty Meralomas halfback, skirted right end in the third quarter and ran eight yards for a touchdown—the only score of the game. It was not converted. But for two intercepted passes and a fumble, Vancouver would probably have had two more touchdowns to their total.

In the second quarter, Alberta intercepted a forward pass on their fifteen-yard line. Meralomas gained possession on an Alberta fumble on the students' twenty-yard line, but lost the ball on a similar play themselves. Early in the third quarter, Meralomas started a march down the field that seemed destined to end with a major score, but Jack Thompson intercepted a pass on his own two-yard line, and the Albertans kicked out of danger.

MERALOMAS SUPERIOR
Meralomas were decidedly superior in line play, chalking up eight first downs to three for Alberta, two of which were made with the aid of offside penalties.

Play centred around midfield for the greater part of the first half, with both squads playing cautiously and using conventional line plays. Meralomas started the third quarter with a series of bucks that sent them well into Alberta territory. When Thompson intercepted a long forward pass from Bob Wilson, Meralomas backfield star.

Alberta made a first down on an offside by the orange and black, but were held for two downs, and Thompson kicked out of bounds on his forty-yard line. Meralomas made a first down on an offside, then George Niblo tossed for a twenty-five-yard forward pass to Eric Cameron. Two line plays put the Coast team on Alberta's eight-yard line, and on the next play, Wilson sped around the end for the lone touchdown. Niblo missed the convert.

TEAMS TIRE
Both squads appeared tired in the final quarter, and Meralomas were content to play defensive football, kicking out of danger whenever the visitors started pressing.

Referee—Del Finlay, Vancouver; Broadfoot, Alberta.

SUMMARY
First Quarter—No score. No penalties.
Second Quarter—No score. No penalties.
Third Quarter—Meralomas touchdown (Wilson), 56 yards. Line converted (Niblo). No penalties.
Fourth Quarter—No score. No penalties.

Signs as Manager of Bucs Again

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—The wandering warrior, William Harrison Dempsey, has taken his last tour, hopped his last rattler for parts north, south and west. The man who rolled off the underpart of freight trains to launch his fighting career, and rode a million miles first-class thereafter, won't travel farther north than New Rochelle, nearer the West than Brooklyn, or farther south than Manhattan-Transfer, if he can help it now.

"I'm just a fellow named Dempsey from here on," he said today. "No more refereeing tours, no more vaudeville, no more fight managing. I'm a home man now. I've settled down. I'm off the road for good."

Dempsey has leased a home here for himself, his wife and their three-month-old baby daughter, Joan. The former champion is building a huge tavern and restaurant on Eighth Avenue, opposite Madison Square Garden, and he owns 61 per cent of a proposition that involves $3,500,000, including the purchase price of the land.

He's all choked up with business, the thrills of brand new fatherhood, and the fun of furnishing his first real home he's ever had.

He isn't even thinking about the fight game. That is, not until someone starts talking about it. Then he's the same old Dempsey.

"Who'll lick Bar? No one but Bar and the heavyweight championship. As a fighter Bar can rule the heavyweight division for the next twenty years. As a champion, it's just a question of time before the forced inactivity that goes with the title beats him. I know. I never cracked up in the ring. I cracked up in training, trying to make up in six weeks all the work I hadn't done in a year. Your body won't stand it."

Nanaimo Announces Team for Soccer Fixture Here Tomorrow

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 1 (CP).—Nanaimo City will be minus the services of their regular centre-half, Jimmy Knight, in the Capital City, Saturday, when they meet Victoria United in the first of a four-game series for possession of the B. & K. Cup. Knight's berth will be filled by Alex. Thompson.

Pete Inkster has been assigned to custodian duties and Andy Gawn, sensational young newcomer, will partner "Fat" Edmunds on the defence. O. Boyd, A. Thompson and Bill McGregor will form the half-back trio.

Nels Wilson, "Daisy" Waugh, J. Tantrum, George Grey and Adam Watson will perform on the front line. Tantrum, recruit centre forward, is a competent partner for Waugh and Grey, two well-known soccer stars of the Province.

E. McLaren, M. Krail, S. Krail and E. Muir are on the substitute list.

Leaders Will Face Sunderland Squad In Feature Tussle

First Division Pace-Setters in English Football to Tackle Second-Place Aggregation—Arsenal Will Take on Everton—St. Johnstone, Scottish Leaders, Will Meet Rangers

LONDON, Nov. 1 (CP).—The Stoke City-Sunderland clash looms as perhaps the feature tilt in Saturday's soccer programme, with the Stoke eleven on its own grounds determined to maintain the slim lead they have established over the championship division of the English Football League.

Sunderland are only a point back of the Potters, tied with Arsenal, league champions, who will have plenty of troubles on their hands when Everton comes to Highbury. Despite their defeat a week ago, the gunners are using the same line-up against the toffee-makers, who have often proved a bogey for Arsenal in the past.

With a new left-winger urgently needed to replace Horton, who is out with a serious knee injury, Chelsea has put out a big fee, the amount of which is not disclosed, for the services of Barracough, of Wolverhampton. The Potters, barely out of the cellar spot occupied by Huddersfield, hope to improve their position Saturday at the expense of Leeds United.

WILL FACE SPURS

Manchester City, the cupholders, now in seventh place, but still only a game and a half back of the leaders, take on the luckless Spurs. The City is making a change on the right wing, putting Herd in place of Toseland, and McLuckie at inside right. It will be the first time Herd and McLuckie have played these positions, and there is much interest in the outcome.

Bolton Wanderers, second division leaders who travel to Brentford, have a big problem on their hands owing to injuries to the three star players—Milton, Cook and Westwood. Manchester United, visiting Blackpool, will have Bryant, their new outside right from Wrexham, in the line-up.

Charlton Athletic, the leaders of the southern section of the third division, have an easy engagement with the tail-end Exeter City outfit. Tranmere Rovers and Halifax Town, deedlocked in the northern section, will remain that way after Saturday by all accounts, both having home engagements with lowly elevens—Accrington and York City.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 1 (CP).—It will be do or die Saturday for St. Johnstone, the battling eleven that have established themselves surprisingly on top of the first division of the Scottish Football League. St. Johnstone travel to Inver Park for a battle with Rangers, the champions and cupholders, who are three points back of the leaders.

Hamilton Academicals, another outfit that has thrilled its followers with a stirring climb to the top rungs of the division, should have an easy time with Albion Rovers, the newcomers from the second division. If Rangers vanquish St. Johnstone, Saturday night will probably find Rangers and Hamilton tied for second place only a point behind the leaders.

King's Park, newly established in the lead over the second division by virtue of their clash with Third Lanark a week ago, anticipate no trouble with Dumfries, Saturday. The latter eleven, always fighting last season, has had only four wins in twelve starts this year.

When the event was first planned Art Burn, of Calgary, the holder of the provincial ten-mile record, was among the three contestants of Stanley, but he has since dropped out. To take his place, however, there is now in the city C. C. Broughton, an amateur long-distance crack, who has been a resident of Victoria for the past three weeks. Broughton comes from Portland where his performances on the track have shown him to be a runner of note. He holds a fifty-five minute mark for the ten miles, and has done the fifteen mile course in an hour and twenty-five minutes, while he claims the full marathon course in two hours and fifty-five minutes. Fifty miles is said to be his favorite distance. He is anxious to butt into professional ranks, and will take Monday night's event as his opportunity to do so. Broughton is no youngster. In fact he was up to forty-two years, but claims that he is as good now as he has ever been.

The match is arousing considerable interest in local sporting circles, and if Stanley can make good he will show himself to be made of better stuff than his critics give him credit for.

TONY CANZONERI

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (CP).—The new-discussed return match between Barney Ross, world's lightweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, from whom he won the title, is headed for Chicago, it was indicated today. It is expected to take place there early in December over a ten-round route if Canzoneri accepts terms. Ross signed articles of agreement yesterday, according to a message, to his New York representative, Sol Gold. Ross won the championship from Canzoneri in Chicago and successfully defended it against him here three months later. Ross is expected to engage in several overweight matches before meeting Canzoneri.

BAKER TAKES MEDAL ROUND; LOSES MATCH

Shoots 79 in Caddies' Golf Meet—Beaten by Hodgson—R. Spaven Still in Race

FLASHING his way around a rain-soaked course during a heavy down-pour, L. Baker, youthful bag-carrier, captured the qualifying round honors at the annual city caddies' championship tournament, yesterday morning, at the Uplands Golf Club, with a fine 79, one stroke in front of J. McSweeney, the runner-up. The boys were forced to tee off in a torrential rain, and, as a result, found the fairways heavy and the greens covered with miniature lakes. Considering the conditions, the youngsters turned in some good cards.

However, the spoils of victory in the forenoon were just momentarily for young Baker. As match play got under way in the afternoon, Baker ran into a sharpshooting opponent, G. Hodgson, and lost his Waterloo via the 6 and 4 route over eighteen scheduled holes. Baker's defeat was the biggest surprise of the day, but at the same time it makes Hodgson a feared contender from now on. Bobby Spaven, defending titleholder, found the going tough, but gained a qualifying berth with a card of 84. He won his first round match from R. McMillan, 2 and 1.

IN THIRD PLACE
Freddy Painter and Walter Spaven shared third and fourth places in the medal scramble with 83, while four others had 84's. Scores of 88 or better qualified.

G. Brassard, two up, while Walter Spaven faded from the picture before the steady playing of B. Hines, one up. Two matches went to the nineteenth hole, A. Gostiller and J. McSweeney winning at the first extra holes over S. Haylock and D. Barr, respectively. Match play will continue with two rounds set.

Security Prices Little Changed At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—The stock market picked its way hesitantly along a narrow path today, paying little heed to a brisk rally in wheat and brighter business prophecies.

Except for grains, a recovery in rubber futures and the scattered strength in the share list, the main drift of prices was downward.

Turnover totaled 541,690 shares.

Central of New Jersey fell 6 points on a few transfers. Union Pacific lost 2-1/4, Louisville & Nashville nearly 3 and Boston & Maine dropped 1 point to a new 1934 low.

Other weak spots were International Silver, preferred, off about 5 points; Beechnut Packing, down 2; Penick & Ford, down more than 1 point; and United Fruit, off 1-1/2.

American Can, American Telephone, U.S. Steel, Chrysler and other leaders of the list moved narrowly, finishing with fractional changes up and down. National Distillers and Schenley portrayed, with small gains, a firmer market for liquor stocks. Copper shares were soft.

Heaviness of U.S. Government securities and scattered railway lines gave the bond market a somewhat divergent appearance. In the foreign division, Argentine bonds dropped 1 point or so.

Virginia Vane Says:

GIRL, POPULAR AT SPORTS, SHOULD PAY MORE ATTENTION TO FEMININE QUALITIES TO SERIOUSLY INTEREST UNRESPONSIVE BOY FRIEND

My Dear Miss Vane: Mine is a very peculiar problem. I have many boy friends, probably many more than the average girl. I am fortunate in having three brothers, all leaders in school, and very popular. From the time I was old enough to walk I have been tag-ging around with my brothers. I met all their friends, and have been very popular with them. I became very proficient in every department of sports. I can skate, swim, play tennis, almost as well as my brothers. Though it sounds conceited, I know that the boys admire me, and I have always been flattered that they treat me as a "pal."

However, I find that I have fallen in love with one of the "bunch," and that though I enjoy his confidence, he is not aware of my feeling for him, nor is he interested in me, except as a "pal."

So romance seems to be giving you the "go by," does it? Well, you certainly have been optimistic if you've been thinking romance could flourish on the baseball diamond, or that a good forehead drive would be as effective in getting your man as soft lights and sweet music. Feminine loveliness is not developed through strenuous exercise, and the delicate refinements of a romantic relationship cannot survive the outspoken honesty and frankness of the field of sport.

It is imperative that you immediately change your basis with your present boy friends. No longer must you allow yourself to be treated as one of the "crowd." Perhaps as soon as you decide to command respect instead of good-fellowship you will find your popularity waning with many of them, but I know that this boy you care for will immediately take favorable notice.

You must find yourself a lot of girl friends to take the place of the boys you will lose by your new personality. Right at this point your education in men is complete and the perfect understanding of their motives and standards, that has caused them to accept you as a "pal" in the past, will give you a decided advantage in your future relations with them, even though they are going to be on a different basis. Cultivate your girl friends. Surround yourself with feminine interests, and adopt the feminine sense of values. Demand respect from your boy friends. It would be better if you had no boy friends at all rather than have your present basis with them continue.

Men like to protect their women, and when they encounter one that can't use their strength and protective instinct, but must treat as an equal in this respect, they say admire, but seldom do they develop for her that romantic devotion every girl wants from her man.

Cultivate softness and gentleness of personality. Accept the protectiveness of a man's strength and courage, and don't try to take his job away from him. Such an attitude, coupled with your present knowledge of them, will not only attract this all-important man, but will soon surround you with devoted admirers of the opposite sex.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE FEARS TO ASSERT OWN OPINIONS

My Dear Miss Vane: I am engaged to be married sometime within the next year. The man I love is very devoted, and I believe he loves me as much as I do him. He is ten years older than I, however, and naturally we have differences of opinion on lots of issues. I have never considered my own ideas of sufficient importance to warrant my arguing against anything he might decide.

Now that my marriage approaches, I am beginning to wonder if I shouldn't assert myself a little more. On several occasions I have tried to do so, but feel that if I ever really did disagree seriously with him, I would lose his love. I am terribly worried about this, and would like you to assure me, if you can honestly do so, that my worries are the usual ones a prospective bride experiences as her marriage approaches.—Worried.

No, I cannot honestly say that this fear you have of your future husband is a symptom of a nervous breakdown. It is a very common marriage. Many times the prospective bride fears that the whole business is a mistake. The making of any decision carries with it the fear of uncertainty, and marriage is no exception. It is a girl that they generally contract a case of the "jitters" shortly before.

However, there is seldom any doubt in their minds as to their love for their men, nor their fiancé's for them. This is what seems to be troubling you. If you were perfectly sure of your fiancé's love for you, there would be no doubt of his complete understanding and respect of your wishes or opinions. An understanding of this sort is most essential to a happy marriage, and you would do well to start now to establish such a basis. In many marriages mutual understanding has taken the place of love completely, as we think of it, and has brought great happiness to the persons involved.

Have a serious talk with your fiancé at the first opportunity, telling him of your fears, and that they must be allayed before you can be sure of your future happiness with him.

Start immediately making your own decisions, and form the habit of sticking to them until you are reasoned out of them. It is not necessary that you be stubborn, or have a scene every time you disagree. Calmly, but firmly, assert your opinion of the matter, and only allow yourself to change your stand when you have been persuaded to do so through reason, not fear.

You are bound to have real differences in your married life, and if you have been in the habit of meekly bowing down to your fiancé before marriage, you will find your husband deeply resentful of any firmness on your part after marriage.

I am sure your fiancé will see the necessity of building up mutual confidence and understanding in this manner before marriage, and I do believe your love for him will increase in just the degree you develop this new basis.

Nan: You must keep your job. If your boy friend feels that he will be losing too much prestige by marrying someone who wants to work after marriage, then let him go out and get himself a good enough job to assure you of the comforts and luxuries you want.

Mayor Insists on Marrying Lovers

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 1 (AP).—Policemen in Chihuahua City, Mexico, took up the role of Dan Cupid tonight, sauntering through that city's parks in search of lovers eligible for marriage.

Mayor Eugenio Prado, in a decree designed to safeguard public morals, ruled that couples found conversing in parks and other public places after 10 p.m. must be married. The policemen were instructed to take to the civil registrar's office any couples found in "inconvenient places" after 10 p.m.

An American girl, visiting England, was recommended by a friend to see Lincoln Cathedral.

"Oh, indeed," said the girl. "Is there a Lincoln Cathedral in England?"

There is, and a superb building, too," was the reply.

"Say, now," she exclaimed, "wasn't it just too sweet of them to name it after our Abe?"

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE VALUE OF WATER

You may wonder at times why every health writer advises the drinking of plenty of water or other liquids. In fact, a few years ago the drinking of any fluids at meal time was considered unwise, as it was thought that fluids diluted the stomach digestive juice and it would lose just that much of its strength or power to digest the food.

As a matter of fact, a little water just before meals or during meals helps digestion as it promotes the flow of digestive juice in the stomach; thus before the food is eaten digestive juice in the stomach is waiting for it. Hence the value of soups at the beginning of a meal.

The reason that liquids are so necessary and so helpful to the body is because they act as a solvent. Chemical reactions between substances, such as the chemical reactions that enable the tissues to do their work, cannot take place unless they are in solution, and the body cells must be kept in solution in order that life processes can go on.

Three-quarters of the substances composing the cells of the body—the protoplasm—are made up of water.

Fortunately all foods contain water, the driest bread or biscuit may contain 5 to 10 per cent water, and some fruits and vegetables like tomatoes, melons, lettuce, cauliflower and strawberries may contain as much as 90 per cent.

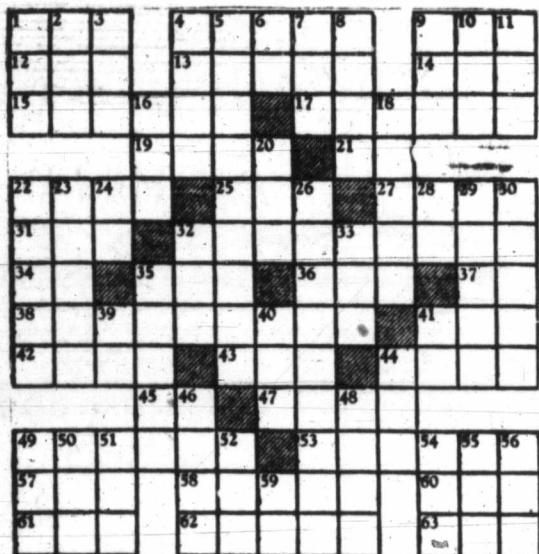

The uses of water in the system are:

- (1) To keep the tissues in solution so that chemical reactions can take place and for maintaining the proper dilution of salts in the tissues.
- (2) To supply fluid for the digestive juices.
- (3) To enable the blood and lymph to carry soluble substances to all parts, and also carry wastes to the various organs that throw them out of the body—skin, intestine, lungs and kidneys.
- (4) To regulate the temperature of the body by getting rid of heat by the evaporation of water from the skin.

With the exception of those who are overweight and thin individuals with a "dropped" stomach, practically everybody can derive benefit from three to four glasses of water daily.

A glass of water on arising and one before each meal is a simple way of taking the water regularly.

GERMANS PLAN ARCTIC FLIGHT

New Zeppelin May Land
Party of Scientists in Unexplored Territory

LEIPZIG, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP).—Plans for a Zeppelin Polar expedition into the heart of the vast sector between the North Pole, Alaska and Wrangel Island, with the United States as a starting point, were outlined today.

Professor Ludwig Weickman, director of the Leipzig University Geographical Institute and a member of the Graf Zeppelin Arctic Expedition of 1931, said a flight into this hitherto unexplored territory could be made "without difficulty" with Germany's new LZ-129, now under construction. "If an air base were available in the United States," he said.

Speaking at the 525th anniversary of the founding of the university, he said.

"If a Zeppelin service with North America becomes a reality, this will be taken care of," referring to the proposed base.

Weickman said Germany's new LZ-129, which will be completed next summer, would open new possibilities for Arctic exploration owing to the craft's almost unlimited radius of action.

BAPTISM GIVEN TO QUINTUPLETS

Five Little Maries Have Ten
Other Christian Names
Between Them

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 1 (CP).—Fifteen Christian names, equally divided among them at a baptismal service, the Dionne quintuplets, five months and three days old, yesterday, went back to their routine of cow's milk, cooked cereal, fresh air and sleep.

It was a solemn but homely service yesterday at the Dafoe Hospital, where the five little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne continue to thrive under the care of Dr. A. R. Dafoe. It was somewhat of a family gathering and a private one. Relatives of both parents were present and were named as godfathers and godmothers.

The baptismal ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church were conducted by Rev. E. T. McNally, parish priest of Corbett. As the drops of water touched the tiny heads the infants smiled and cooed.

Each child bears the name Marie in its three Christian names. Yvonne became Yvonne Edouilda Marie, and then there are Annette Lilliane Marie, Cecile Marie Emilie, Emilie Marie Jeanne and Marie Reine Alma.

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"
If November 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a.m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p.m. and from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 4:45 to 6:45 a.m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m., and from 10:45 p.m. until midnight.

Unless you make use of your imagination on this date, so as to visualize the possibilities of a proposition that is very likely to be offered to you, an advantageous opportunity may be dismissed without your realizing what you are passing upon. Be careful not to allow yourself to become absent-minded on this November 2 for you might make a mistake if you are not mentally alert. There will be a large amount of money in circulation and some of it will probably pass into your possession. This should be an excellent day to plan social activities and any form of entertainment, as there is very little likelihood of obstacles cropping up to interfere with your ideas. Married and engaged couples, as well as those seeking a maiden fair or an eligible young man, may avoid creating a sense of irritability if they are cautious regarding their language, or the way they express themselves.

If a woman and November 2 is your natal day, some desire you have had for a long time may be gratified before the day has passed. A friendly communication that you will probably receive should cause you to feel highly elated. You might not realize it, but there is a possibility that you lean strongly towards the modernistic style in art, literature and dress, so you will be thoroughly contented only in a position that brings you in contact with people who are progressive and rather advanced in their thinking. Some business closely connected with art, literary productions, or catering to an exclusive clientele's fastidiousness in wearing apparel should be the place for you. Your speaking voice can also be turned into a decided asset. You may be decidedly the important factor responsible for the amount of happiness to be derived from the matrimonial career, and there is no reason why you should not have a great deal of it.

The child-born on November 2, when it reaches its teens, may be firmly convinced that the stage will suffer a great loss, if it is not permitted to grace it. There will probably be very little doubt in the minds of the other members of the household as to its oratorical powers. Physically and mentally alert this youngster should have the capacity to succeed.

If a man and November 2 is your birthday, you have all the essential qualifications needed to be a successful clergyman, actor, lawyer, lecturer, or a persuasive salesman.
